East

SEPTEMBER RENEWS old friendships as Bruce Miller and Marilyn Brink discuss the fun of finally becoming seniors.

Initiates New Cycle

This is East. The noisy exuberance of its pizza-loving population sparkles in every Provost's enter, fad they initiate, or record they buy. New this year were the reading of the bulletin over the intercom, the building of floats for Homecoming, the Student Council's selling of calendars instead of Wolf Books, and the opening of the new physics lab with expanded facilities for concentrated individual study. Since this was an election year, candidate loyalties split the student body into factions. Political stickers, booster buttons, and candidate placards declared the political preferences of the bedizened wearer. Little pink elephants proclaiming "Witwer Was Here" and varicolored "Imported from Italy" stickers appeared stuck to any available surface

At East the fads that gained popularity reflected the student body's desire to be different. Girls' skirts presented a problem. These skirts and teachers' tempers concerning them both were shorter this year. Squash heeled shoes, sweaters, and pleated skirts reflected the year's predominating color scheme. Popular also with the girls were junky bracelets, colored nylons, wool socks and gym shoes, and bubble and fluffy hairstyles. Bulky knit or ivy league sweaters appealed to the fellows, while Johnny Mathis, the Kingston Trio, and Ahmad Jamal found admirers in both groups. Dances with imaginative names like "Avalanche," "The Pirates," "Crazy," "The Salsas," and "The New dance steps like the Pony or the Watutsi were popular among the more athletic, while "Theme from Exodus," "Blue Velvet" and the Proverbs Book created romantic memories for others.

LUNCH PERIODS let students enjoy warm days

Since East had never before had floats at Homecoming, club members and classes, in levis and bermudas, worked creatively to produce floats of all descriptions stuffed in chicken wire. A more ambitious class entered a soapbox complete with music and sail into a parade parade. As the floats were displayed, the many floats which represented the many organizations and classes at East. Photos of the Homecoming dance where the top 10 were crowned were also on display.

BIG, WET SNOWBALLS whizzing over their heads make Anne Sondershup and Nancy Donovan duck since Burt Miller's aim gets better with every shot

The cafeteria in the morning, a monitor post in the library, an unused radiator in the hall all served as places to do some last minute cramming as semester finals loomed in the horizon. Being crammed in the popular compact cars amidst choked passages and cries of "Your elbow's in my stomach!" made trips to away games and meets even more fun. Batteries of tests strained juniors and seniors as they worried about getting a high score and being accepted at the college of their choice. When the College Board scores were revealed, some were disappointed but cries of "645 in Verbal wow!" or "This is too good to be true, a 600 in Math!" declared most were pleased. Silas Murner tests vied with Macbeth examinations for the title of Most Feared as homework filled the attentions of students. Pep assemblies and fun nights brought a relief from tests and teachers. After snow storms, students reveled in snowballing, tobogganning, and skating

A YEAR filled with responsibility followed the Awards Assembly

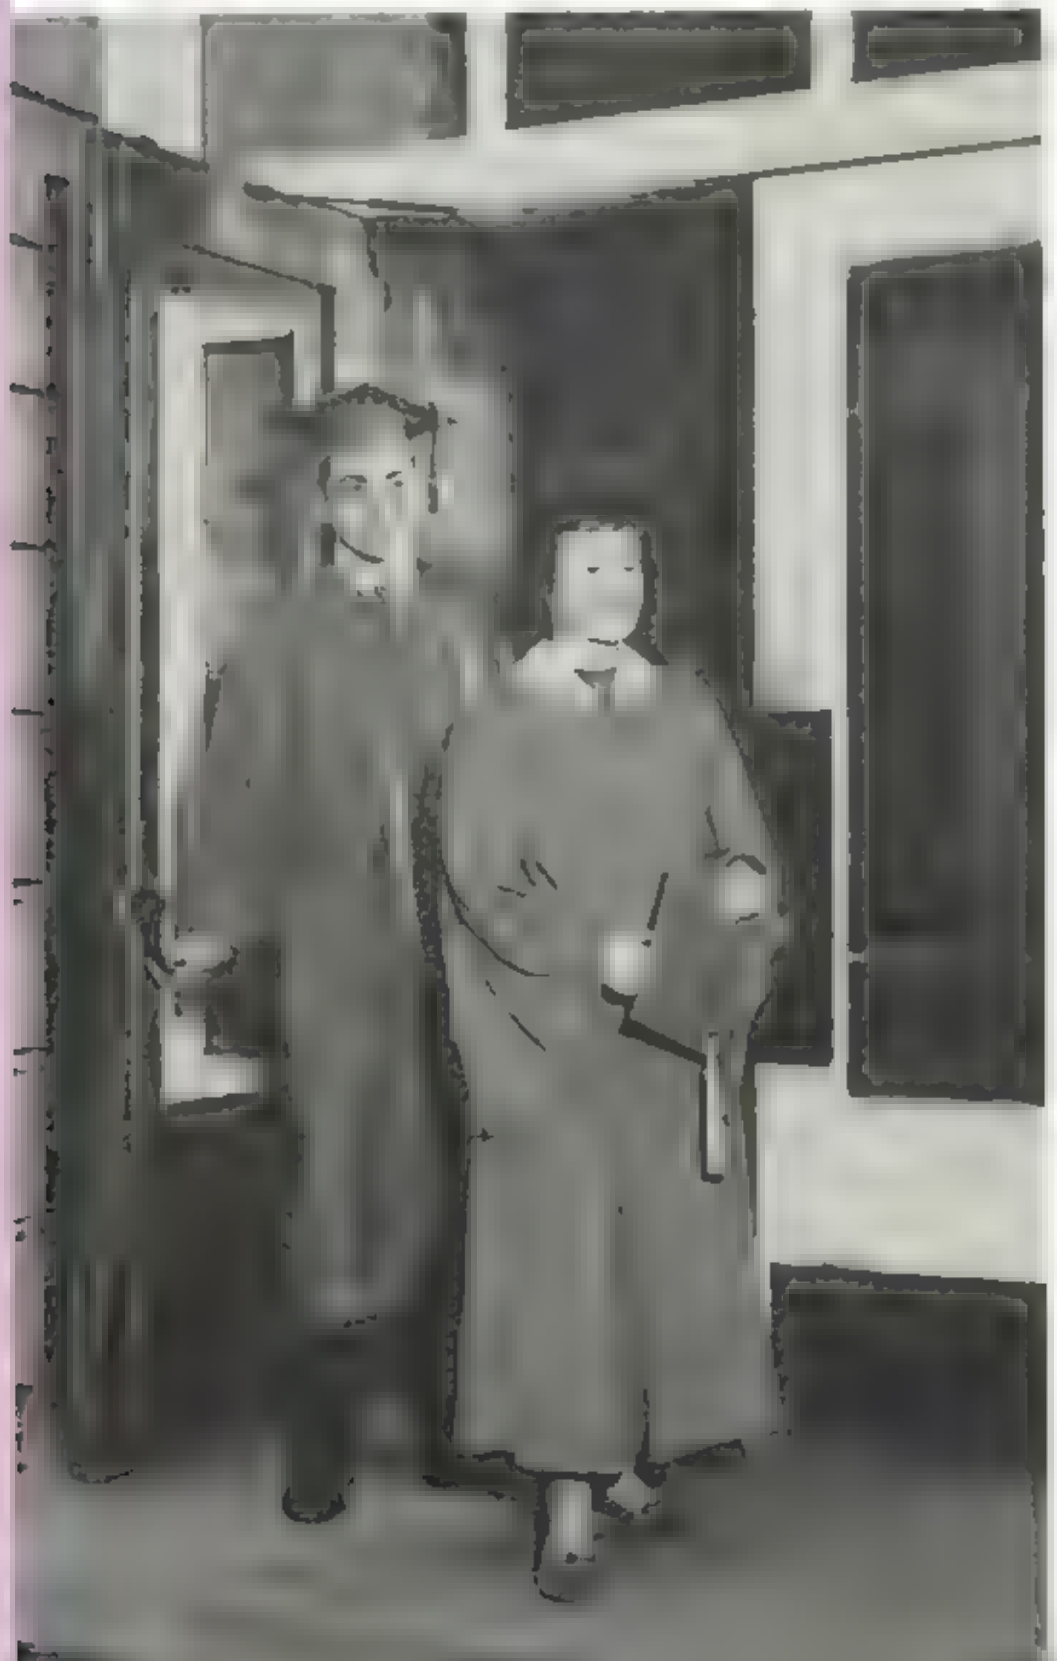

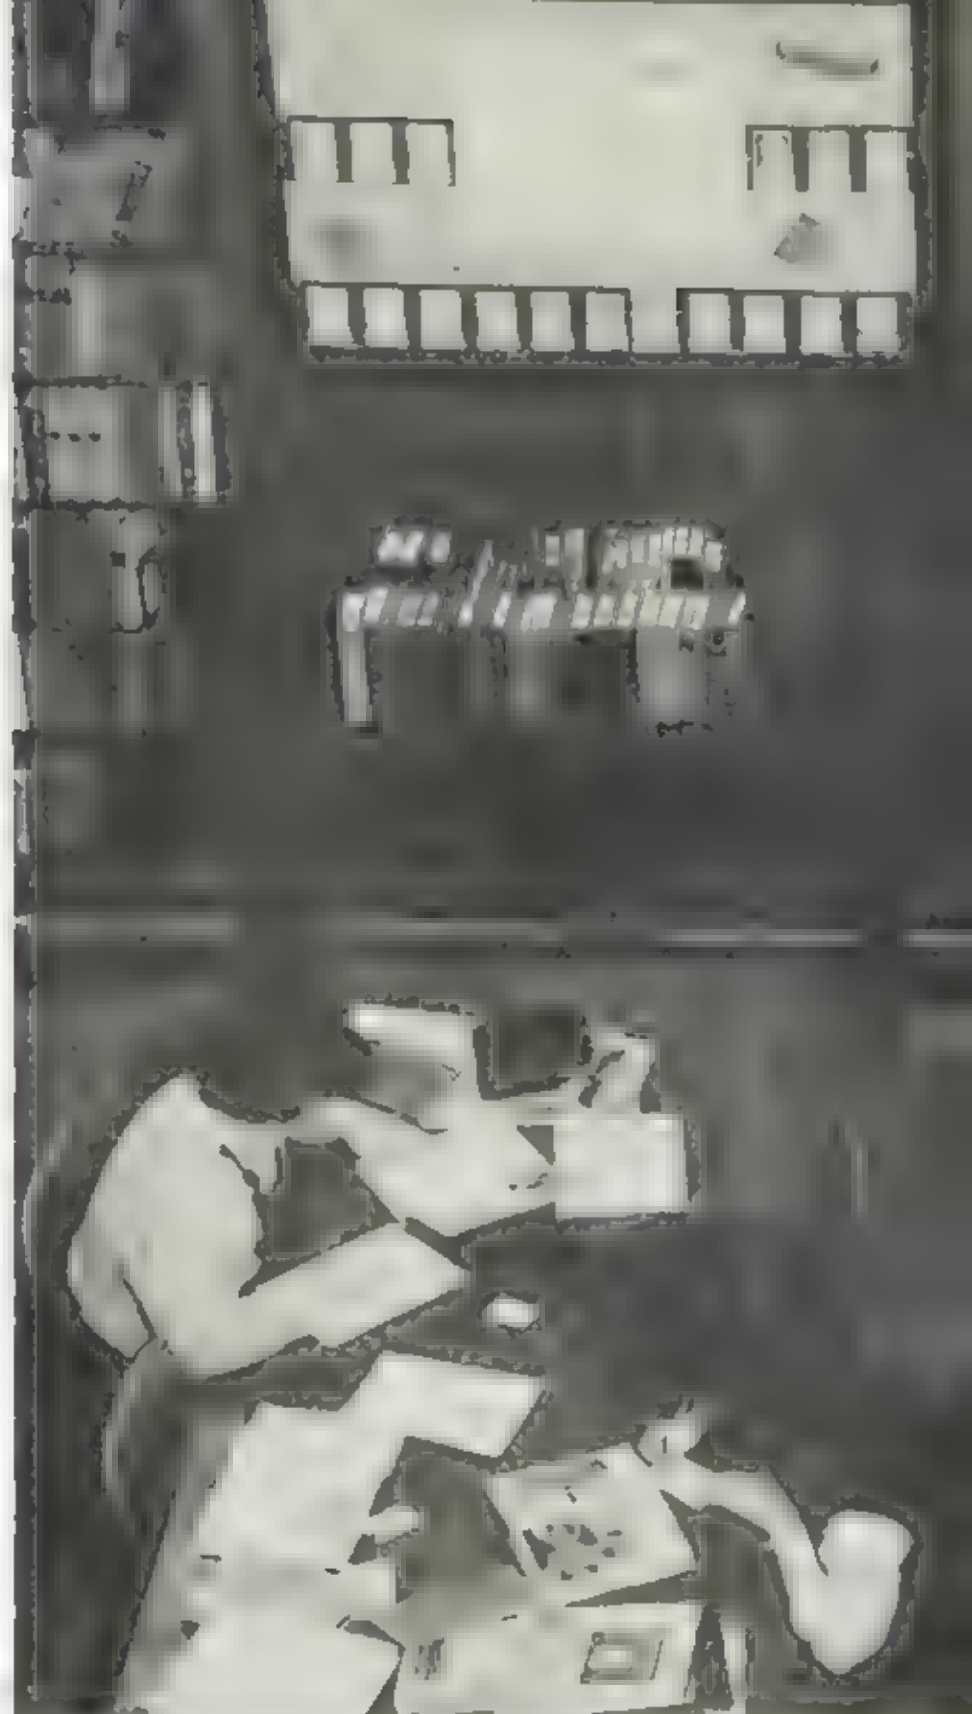

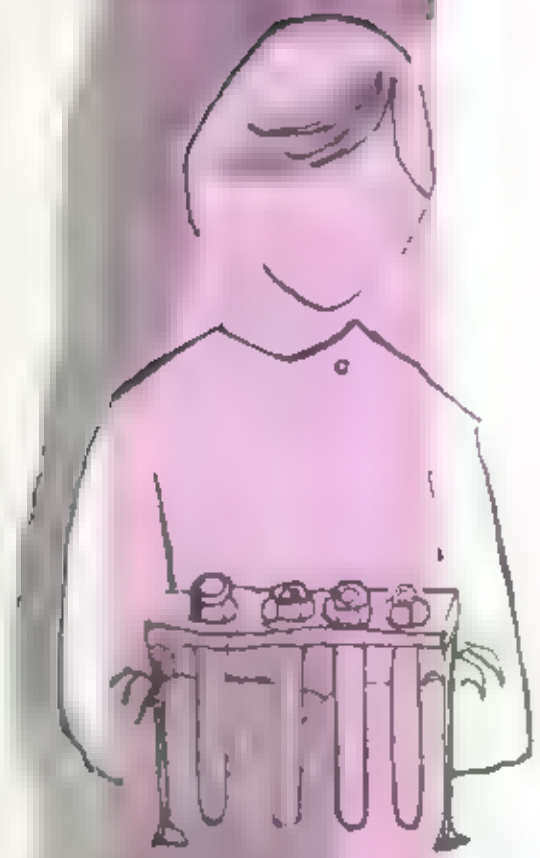

Days seemed to creep by; but finally, as graduation appeared only weeks away, seniors nostalgically reviewed their high school career. Birthdays celebrated with a candle-bedecked cupcake in the cafeteria, fun in its, term paper sleeplessness, inquisitive monitors, and above all the friendships acquired stand out among the cherished dried corsages, menus, and milk tickets as memories of a four-year education that was all-too-short.

HAPPY THAT THEY have completed their high school education, Ken Wayne and Beth Schaefer take a last look at East.

CROWDED TABLES STREWN with notecards and papers testify that the library is the center of many students' thorough research for names, dates, and statistics for reports, themes, discussions, or term papers

Struggling to cut a square corner in woodshop took as much concentration as determining whether calcium or strontium ions produced the reddish flame of a solution in chemistry. Whether the tests teachers contrived were for the commercial or college preparatory curriculum, students declared teachers wrote them while lying on a bed of nails. Finals, quizzes, or chapter tests all meant reviewing or cramming to the homework loaded Provisoite. Surprises such as taking a perfect 120 wpm dictation in stenography and the little triumphs of proving an extra-difficult geometry problem or knowing the missing word in a quote from "The Idylls of the King" brightened the days. Most of all, doing well in a subject made a Provisoite feel he was finally getting somewhere in this most-necessary business of acquiring an education. This is EDUCATION AT EAST

SYNCHRONIZING TWO four-year high schools into one unit, Dr. Knoepfel works diligently on many problems and their solutions

Dr. Knoepfel Encourages Small School Atmosphere

Keeping two four-year schools running smoothly gives Superintendent Leroy J. Knoepfel little time in which to relax.

Besides supervising the instruction in the various divisions of the school, Dr. Knoepfel employs new staff members, administers the budget, and carries out the other duties that confront him during the year.

Development of a "small school" within a large school has been achieved by the new procedure of having a counselor for each class who guides students in enrollment and general counseling throughout the four years of their high school life.

An articulation program between the elementary schools and the high school has been completed with the publication of curriculum handbooks in all subjects. He is concerned with developing a curriculum that will be geared to the individual student's ability.

Dr. Knoepfel hopes to develop a post-high school program of education to meet not only the needs of students who want to continue their education in college, but also the needs of those who wish to take terminal courses in technical and vocational subjects. In his role as superintendent he constantly evaluates the progress of education at large.

GUARDING DR. KNOEPEL'S office Mrs. Frieda Zochert, Dr. K's secretary, is always willing to give extra time to help teachers and students. Mrs. Zochert, who has been secretary for the past fourteen years, attended Lewis Institute and was graduated from Bryant and Stratton College.

East's Board of Education Adds Public Address System

Proviso East's Board of Education fulfilled one of its ambitions when it installed a public address system in the auditorium at East this year, excluding the need for posted paper bulletins that used to be sent individually to all classrooms.

To be or not to be, that was the question that faced the Board when the bond issue failed to pass the popular vote. As a result, East didn't acquire its desired crosswalk, or remodeling of the auditorium, but it did obtain a newly remodeled physics laboratory and improvements in the girls' pool.

With science's recent rebirth, especially since Russia's advancements, the need for more and better equipped laboratories has become even greater. Keeping this thought in mind, Proviso's board plans to remodel its science rooms in the near future. The National Defense Educational Program will help finance these projects.

Rezoning is just one more problem that could very well face the board. It will come about if money is not obtained to add additional classroom space at West. More pupils would then have to transfer to East. Whether or not another bond issue will be put forth has not yet definitely been decided by Proviso's board.

They know, however, that with the ever-growing population, the need for more and better facilities will have to be faced if Proviso is to keep up its standard of education.

Rezoning had to be done in August when some freshmen in the West district were transferred to Proviso East.

As director of the Joint Committee on Testing, Principal Charles C. Holt spent most of this year in Washington, D C. After his leave of absence, he returned to Proviso East in March.

Mr. Holt and his committee worked all year on the one year joint project for the National Association of Secondary School Principals, the American Association of School Administrators, and the Chief State School Officers. This group checked the external testing program in the 50 states.

Checking through the maze of examinations given to students throughout the United States, Mr. Holt's committee's job was fact-finding, then on the basis of fact, it planned to set ground rules for the guidance of school administrators. Since about 130 million tests were given to school children, averaging three tests for every child in first grade through college, his committee checked to cut duplication.

Mr. Holt, who is assistant to the superintendent, also acts as principal at Proviso East. He received his Bachelor of Science degree from Southeast Missouri State College and his Master of Science degree from the University of Illinois and has recently completed his work on his Ph D at the University of Illinois. Mr. Holt came to Proviso East in 1956 and has served as principal and administrative assistant.

HIS DUTIES as principal and as director of a national committee don't hamper Mr. Holt's friendly smile as he returns to East.

East Principal Heads National Testing Committee

Seven secretaries in the main office take care of records at Proviso East under the direction of Mrs. Rezabek, office co-ordinator. She also keeps records of enrollment.

Mrs. Pearson, Miss Terhune's secretary, sends college transcripts and types the daily bulletin, while Mrs. Hagen issues work permits and operates the school's switchboard.

Mrs. Jones, secretary to the principal, also schedules the use of station wagons and buses and works on College Day and NHS. Miss Johnson, key punch operator, helps with enrollment and transfers. Mrs. Keating takes charge of supplies and mimeographing. Mrs. Puryear was transferred from the pool to take over Miss Searcy's position.

MAIN OFFICE SECRETARIES—Mrs. Myrtle Hagen, Miss Sandra Searcy, Mrs. Elvera Pearson, Mrs. Joan Keating, Mrs. Winifred Jones, Mrs.

Mildred Rezabek, and Miss Donna Johnson.

Even though she assumed the duties of acting principal last November during the absence of Mr. Charles C. Holt, Miss Virginia Terhune retained her cheerful smile.

In her official capacity as administrative assistant, Miss Terhune found herself among stacks of college transcripts, college application forms, transfer requests, master schedules, materials for bulletin boards, and the five copies of report cards for each student that are required for enrollment.

In addition, she was in charge of scheduling the entire summer school program and directing the office personnel.

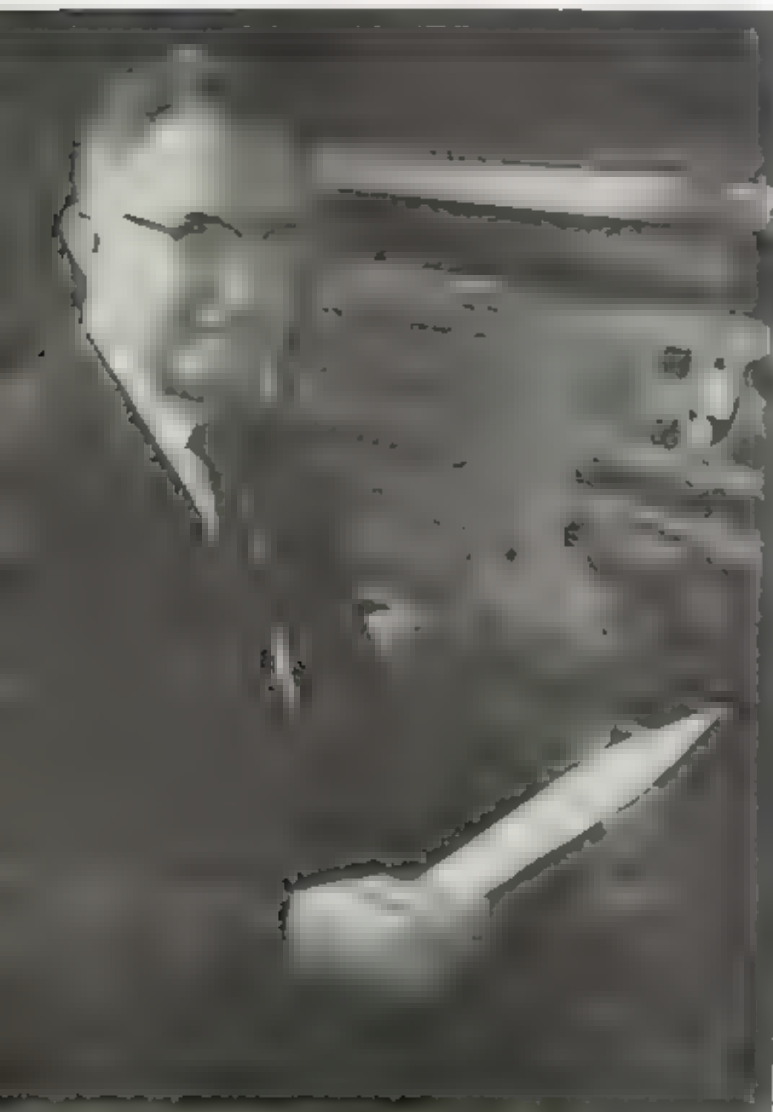

College days were still another important phase of her work. She contacted colleges and universities early in October and invited them to send representatives to speak with students who were interested in gaining information about that college.

Miss Terhune received her Master of Arts in Mathematics at the University of Michigan after gaining a BA at Illinois College in Jacksonville. She has done additional graduate work at University of Illinois and at Indiana University. Miss Terhune taught in the mathematics department at Proviso for 19 years and has served as administrative assistant for the past four years. In 1955 she had a leave of absence to participate in the Educational Testing Service.

ACTING AS PRINCIPAL. Miss Virginia Terhune, administrative assistant, fills out student forms and directs office personnel.

Administrative Heads Assume Duties of Principal

Continuing with some of the school administration duties that he assumed last February, Dr. Leslie Remley did double duty as principal and Dean of Students.

In November when Miss Terhune took over the duties of Dr. Holt, Dr. Remley continued in charge of substituting teachers and his own work as dean.

Completing his thirtieth year at Proviso, Dr. Remley has served as a science teacher, head of the Physical Education Department, and Director of Athletics. He has been Dean of Students for four years.

He served as the Representative on the Board of Control for the Suburban League of East. He has charge of requesting government aid through the National Defense Education Act.

Dr. Remley received his bachelor's degree at Wabash College and his PhD at the State University of Iowa.

As Dean of Students, he makes the final decisions on disciplinary problems referred to him by teachers, counselors, and administrators. He also directs the policies of conduct pertaining to the entire student body, both boys and girls.

DR. REMLEY PAUSES before presenting the conference sports' score over East's new public address system which is under his supervision.

BUSINESS OFFICE SECRETARIES: Gertrude Bathie, assistant to the Business Manager in charge of purchasing; Leona Polka, assistant to the Business Manager in charge of accounting; Moe Hollen, secretary to the Business Manager and order clerk; Henrietta Koeper, student activity bookkeeping; and Patricia Winterhagen, payrolls and bookkeeping.

Students Learn Their ABC's Through Testing Program

DIRECTOR OF TESTING, Edward Bos, MA, checks the IBM cards which record the scores students have made on the many tests he gives.

By trying to decipher the alphabet for the many PSAT, CEEB, and NEDT tests he gives to East's students, Mr. Edward Bos keeps his days well filled. He supervises the four hour testing given to all freshmen, sophomores, juniors and seniors in homerooms early in October. This year he distributed IBM cards to freshmen with their individual scores. In addition he tabulates results to keep teachers acquainted with students progress.

A staff of five secretaries in the business office handle the financial accounts of the school and its many organizations. At the beginning of each semester they process the rental fee of every student and distribute the money to the various departments and organizations. They keep track of cafeteria records and accounts while applying for government subsidies on such staples as butter and milk.

All requisitions for supplies are recorded in the business office and the secretaries do the ordering that is necessary. Providing hundreds of dollars worth of change for ticket sales and concessions at athletic events is another duty.

To keep the many departments of a school the size of Proviso East equipped with mimeographed materials, tests and bulletins, the departmental secretaries put in many hours. The library and the departments of counseling, English, and physical education are fortunate to have their own secretaries, while the smaller departments are served by the secretarial pool.

This pool was started last year to serve all departments more efficiently. Instead of assigning secretaries to the departments for certain hours, each department turns its work into the pool where it can be done on a better schedule. Each fall a national convention of school secretaries is held to show new and different methods of keeping the office running efficiently and to discuss various problems that this special type of secretary must face daily.

Students wishing to purchase books or to have new ones issued to them to replace those lost see Mrs. Agnes Smith. She keeps a close record of all books coming in or going out, while her biggest job consists of assigning them to teachers and checking them all in at the end of the year.

BOOK ROOM secretary Mrs. Agnes Smith keeps a close record of all books coming in or going out and those lost by students.

Secretarial Pool Increases Efficiency of Departments

DEPARTMENT SECRETARIES—FRONT ROW: Rose Bernhardt, secretary in English office; Lorelei Philipps, secretarial pool; Patricia Cook, secretarial pool; Elsie Knudsen, secretary in testing; Mary Witt, secretary for girls' attendance. ## Cafeteria Staff Knows Way to Students' Hearts

ASSISTANT CAFETERIA Supervisor Maria Bailey and Supervisor Dorothy Accardi discuss menus planned for next week's meals.

Known for their good humor as well as for the quality of the food they serve, the members of the cafeteria staff take care of more than 2400 students and faculty daily. The milk and sweet rolls served before school are often life-savers for students.

Mrs. Acardi, in charge of planning meals, schedules menus to be posted in homerooms on Fridays. Providing for the purchase of seasonal favorites, as well as handling accounts, adds to her many jobs.

The maintenance department keeps the school neat and in good repair as well as runs the heating plant and laundry. The day staff cares for lawns and shrubbery and the general appearance of the exterior of the building. In the winter they also clean the walks around the building. The matrons, part of the day staff, provide towel service for the physical education classes.

To the night staff is given the job of cleaning the class rooms and halls, while the many night activities call for sweeping the fieldhouse, cafeteria, and auditorium.

William Henriksen will retire at the end of this year after twenty one and one-half years of service at Proviso.

NIGHT MAINTENANCE—FRONT ROW Tony Brazouski, Emanuel Robinson, Bruno Guzzo, George Master, Tom Caputo, Larry Jackson, and Vito Pacione, night foreman

Beauty, Comfort of School Depend on Maintenance

MAINTENANCE SUPERVISORS—William Hendriksen, assistant director of buildings and grounds and day foreman, and Jay Belz, receiving clerk

ENGINEERING STAFF—Louis Zilly, John Wosa, assistant engineer, and William Biade, chief engineer

RICHARD WERNER, director of buildings and grounds, is always willing to stop to help out

TEACHERS GET ready to watch at classroom doors

East Faculty Sets Pace,

Continuing to seek new methods and new techniques, Proviso East faculty sets the pace. Its teachers hold 46 bachelor's degrees, 122 masters degrees, and three doctors degrees.

Teachers in every department show their interest in state and national groups. This year 35 teachers attended workshops in conferences while 12 teachers held offices in state and national associations. One teacher was co-chairman of a national convention this year.

Not content with attending meetings, 11 teachers have written and published articles in state and national journals. Proviso East teachers kept Proviso in the foreground.

Teachers met the needs of Proviso East students outside the classroom as well. They supervised after-school play groups, newspaper, yearbook, leagues, councils, clubs, sports, GAA activities, and many others. Before and after school they were always assisting the individual student.

Nine new teachers started at East in September. Mrs. Karen Hyland and Mrs. Margot Collins joined the physical education department. Mr. Richard Holtz joined the math faculty while Mr. Robert Maples joined the science department. In the library Mrs. Ruby Duffy and Mr. Charles DeYoung were new additions. Mr. Charles Jackson started a new department in social education, and Mr. Stanley Koster joined the counselors.

During the first semester Mr. Fred Hatley, in shop, retired after teaching 31 years at Proviso. At the end of the first semester Mrs. Collins, in physical education, resigned.

Miss Virginia Hayward, junior girls' counselor, and Miss Charlotte Jackson, home economics; Mr. George Haddock, English; Mr. Carl Fisk and Mr. Lester Fry, commercial, and Mr. S. O. Stearns, social studies received service recognition patches for their 25 years of service at Proviso at the annual dinner for teachers held in October at Proviso West.

Studies New Techniques

Teachers at East are constantly striving to find better methods of teaching and meeting the needs of their students. During this year they have continued their study of team teaching. Teachers in speech and teachers of English IV are ready to try an experiment in team-teaching next fall.

The history department and the library cooperated in the development of a new course in Contemporary History. The commercial department made excellent use of an experiment with the overhead projector in teaching typing. Mathematics teachers who were the first to experiment with the new math program are still trying out new ideas and the art department experimented in a course in humanities.

These are only a few of the devices, machines, and plans being used at East this year to give teachers more time to work with the individual student. In spite of the size of the school and faculty East teachers showed a very personal interest in their students.

At the beginning of the second semester three teachers joined the East faculty. Miss Helen Barbour, who will receive her PhD in psychology this summer, taught physical education. Mr. Robert A. Cheatham, who received his bachelor of science from the University of Illinois, joined the math department. Mrs. Doris Bavender, who received her degree from the State University of Iowa, taught math at East in the afternoons and at West in the morning.

At the end of the year Miss Grace Trigg who has been chairman of the English department for the past 38 years will leave Proviso. Miss Trigg has done much to improve Proviso's English department in her 23 years as its chairman. Mr. Ulric Foster who has taught mathematics at Proviso for 32 years, will also retire from teaching this year.

PICKING UP the study sheets initiates Mrs. Bavender, a new teacher.

TEACHERS LIKE to be comfortable, too, while they relax and study.

WOMEN TEACHERS snatch a few minutes in the lounge at noon to catch up on news and styles.

Study of Humanities Becomes East's Newest Class

USING SCRAPING TOOLS these craft students put finishing touches on their pottery and develop the special design perception in seed mosaics

Design, perspective, figure drawing, and color are among the few problems faced by the beginning artist. This knowledge of fundamentals combined with self-expression is stressed in the first two years of the student's work.

One with an interest in the field may enter the various specialties of the department. From pottery, sculpture, and a knowledge of form, to such commercial problems as fashion design and magazine layout, the student gains a solid background for study. Different techniques in water color and oil painting are also developed through study, application, and experimentation during the first and second years.

This year, an eighth course was offered, humanities, a history of art. By means of vivid, colorful slides, the student is introduced to the wondrous masterpieces of the world.

This department is honored with many awards both regional and national. Many students earn art scholarships to college and universities.

Since art belongs to everyone and is a part of everyday life, it is shared with the school and the community during the Annual Spring Art Show held for one week in May.

COMMERCIAL ART students work on lettering plates, design and illustration problems

NICHOLAS JAMES ERNEST, MA, Chairman of Art Department, EDWARD JANSEN BFA, Art I, I Painting; Stage Design; LORRAINE OLSON, MA, Art I, Crafts, Stage Design

BUSY STUDENT TYPISTS practice as secretaries in the classroom office, preparing manuscripts, invoices, bulletins, letters, tables, and memos.

Automation has come to the commercial department. Although teachers haven't been replaced, their work has been simplified, thanks to new equipment installed this year. In typing classes, overhead projectors which flashed lessons and drills on screens, left teachers with more time for individual help. Five IBM electric typewriters and three rotary calculators were purchased so that students might be more familiar with the machines used in today's modern firms.

Commercial students combined learning and service when they staffed the school store for the convenience of their fellow Provisonites. Supervising this store was Mr. Robert Stuckler, advisor of the Future Business Leaders of America. He also represented Proviso East as the state chairman of the Illinois Future Business Leaders.

The thirteen commercial teachers instructed over 1400 students in a variety of subjects embracing the field of business ranging from typing to law. "Knowledge and skills in these courses," stresses Mr. Welsh, head of the department, "is of much use to the student after graduation . . . there is a great demand for retailing and office workers

With Vocational Conferences, College Plans

WHAT'S NEW HERE This is probably the question most frequently asked of the Proviso counselors. It has been their job to handle the enrollment of 4600 students and to supervise their choice of subjects. They go through this procedure twice a year.

This is a minor task when compared to that of guiding and giving advice to many bewildered Provisites. A group counseling handbook, prepared and issued to each class counselor, provides discussion outlines integrating the four year counseling plan. The freshmen year is devoted to orientation and personal problems are handled in the sophomore year. Preparation for college and vocations awaits the juniors, while seniors concentrate on preparing for marriage and life.

They also discuss applications and scholarships for colleges.

Further help is offered in personal conferences, classes and printed material available to any interested person. Students find that the use of college catalogs and booklets concerning vocations is a great help in deciding their future career. Of even more value are the occupational conferences sponsored by the department for juniors and seniors. Here the upperclassmen have the opportunity to confer with people in professions in which they are interested.

Besides helping the students, counselors have made contributions to local communities by giving talks to organized groups and by participating in state and national professional group meetings and appearing on panels at conferences.

COLLEGE PREP ENGLISH students get enjoyment from classics as they work on Macbeth in English literature classes.

Handbook of Usage Ends Conflict of Standards

Most students believe that the English departments are static and dry, but Proviso East's was not that way. This year it also provided many extra-curricular activities to give students cultural advantages. Several honors English classes had the opportunity to see drama in action by attending dress rehearsals and actual performances. Among the performances attended were "Cymbeline" and "A Midsummer Night's Dream."

To keep pace with modern trends and to develop a better and more varied education for pupils, the department increased its use of visual aids as well as tapes and recordings. Proviso was moving ahead and keeping in step with the march of time in writing, in speaking, and in reading.

In this past year the English department has, in cooperation with the other departments, written a handbook of good English usage. Because of the complaints, "Why can't we at Proviso all follow the same pattern?" a handbook was written. It provides a set of easily accessible guides which the students have found acceptable in written and oral work in all of their classes.

It is not a complete manual of good usage, but it does emphasize that material which has led to confusion because of the different practices of the various departments. English teachers point out. Not only does the English department use the handbook, but other departments are adapting it also. Further revision on it will make it even more useful.

Many Thousand Books Fill East's Growing Library

As the nucleus of "book learnin'" at Proviso East, the library continues the growth of its first fifty years. Through the work of four trained librarians, three secretaries, and sixty-seven student pages, Provisosites use a library of 24,100 books, 124 different periodicals, and eight newspapers.

Regular daily activities include checking books in and out, shelving them, maintaining card catalogues, and helping students locate materials. Among its special equipment are three Recordak Readers which use microfilm, three tape recorders, and a record player which plays to nine listening posts.

As the new Director of Libraries, Charles De Young sees that the library keeps up its high standards. The assistant chairman, Lillian Boula, has supplemented the regular curricula with special bibliographies for courses introduced or revised, particularly in the Social Studies, English, and Science departments. Mrs. Boula is the team teacher working with Miss West in the Contemporary Civilization course.

New Ranges, Ironer Equip Tomorrow's Homemaker

Saute! Au gratin! Foie! Chantung! Home economics students learn new skills along with extending their vocabulary. All areas of homemaking are discussed to prepare students to be housewives and mothers.

Girls may take advantage of two years of clothing and foods and a semester each of home planning and family living.

In order that the high standards of the department be maintained and in the hope of making its students better equipped to cope with the problems of the modern housewife, improved equipment has been added this year. This includes an electric ironer, a freezer, and seven new ranges. In addition to these, the department set up a showcase in order to display student projects.

"The aim of the home economics department," says Miss Hofert, department chairman, "is to prepare our girls to fulfill the requirements of tomorrow's busy homemaker."

Well Equipped Shops

With one of the most modern and best equipped departments in northern Illinois, Industrial Arts offers courses in six fields: woodworking, metals, printing, electricity, auto mechanics and drafting. Around 870 boys are enrolled in these classes.

A department this size has many machines that need constant attention and repair. To accomplish this with the least cost, the students get practical experience in making many of the needed parts.

Many ideas for the individual projects come from the pattern pool of the State Board of Vocational Education. Problems submitted by teachers from all the schools in Illinois are available. Students get ideas from the study of these patterns and projects. From these basic ideas they progress to developing and creating their own original projects.

Mechanical Teachers for Language Students

Realizing the great need for knowledge of foreign languages during the critical period of the cold war, Proviso East took giant strides in offering the best language program possible to its students.

The use of tape recorders has been the biggest step forward this year. Besides being an important part of the daily class procedure, tapes were used in listening posts set up in the library. These aided in word pronunciation.

During the second semester the Language Laboratory was installed. Here the students were able to listen to tape recordings of languages, then repeat them, and compare the results. The instructor checked on each student and offered the help needed. Miss Gwendolyn Corbett attended workshop sessions to perfect the skills in using these tapes.

Expanding the program further, a fourth year of both French and Latin were added to the already present fourth year Spanish course.

Thus by listening and reading, speaking and writing, Proviso students had the greatest opportunity ever offered to them to become capable in using the language and understanding the culture of countries that are vitally important to us and to our country's position in today's changing world.

More stress has been put on scholastic work in the mathematics department during the last several years as a result of the increased emphasis on education in this country. As an indication of this emphasis, eight honors classes have been added this year.

After last year's use of the School Mathematics Study Group textbooks, permanent use is being made of these materials in the freshman algebra classes.

As in the last three years, interested and selected students may take analytical geometry and calculus courses for advanced college placement. College credit may also be given as a result of the placement examinations.

Some of Proviso East's mathematic teachers were on various committees for the annual convention of the National Council of Teachers of Mathematics. This convention was held in Chicago during the spring vacation.

This year 12 teachers taught 9 different subjects ranging from mathematic fundamentals to college calculus.

DAILY PRACTICE makes concert players out of bandmen

Boasting the biggest band, orchestra and choir ever, Proviso East's Music Department brings enthusiasm through music to students at football games, plays, assemblies, and concerts. The hard routine of drill, correcting mistakes, drill, and more correction was pushed into the background by the sparkle, excitement, polish, and perfection of the concerts.

New blue robes inspired the choir to more perfect productions. Boys' and girls' choruses and small ensembles gave vocal training to still more students. The concert orchestra performed for plays and programs in addition to its concerts.

Because of the increased number of members, the band has been able to present more outstanding musical selections than were previously possible.

The Majorettes added color at half-time during the football season and to various assemblies throughout the year.

Physical Education Develops Stamina in Youth

Employing the most recent knowledge in sports, modern equipment, and trained faculty, the girls' physical education department offers activities designed to further the skill of any Proviso girl.

Freshmen start with soccer and continue on to speedball in their sophomore year. Juniors learn the basic techniques of modern dance; in their senior year girls perfect their skills in many fields.

Along with sports instructions, girls learn the basic fundamentals of first aid as well as home nursing and hygiene.

The boys' physical education department is geared to the specific objectives of organic power, new muscular development, adjustment of personal-social attitudes, interpretive and intellectual development, and emotional responsiveness.

Freshmen boys learn the fundamentals of major sports; sophomores have driver training and safety education. Juniors study first aid while seniors perfect their skills more completely and also take up the study of advanced hygiene.

Students Enjoy New Facilities in Science

Did you ever wonder about the circulatory system of an earthworm, the polymerization of molecules, or the velocity of light? These are some of the things that baffle the 1,850 students enrolled in the Proviso East Science Department. A staff of 14 well-qualified teachers answer all these questions and lead the young scientists in their textbook and classroom discoveries.

Through the efforts of this efficient staff and the addition of new equipment, Proviso's science department continues to grow and improve. Foremost in this year's expansion was a new physics laboratory located in the southwest corner of the original building.

This modern, well-equipped lab provides space for two classes to study simultaneously — one in a lecture area and the other in the actual laboratory area. Several smaller rooms were built to provide space where students could work on special projects and experiments. A dark room and a storage room were also included. By September, Provisoites will have a revamped chemistry laboratory located on the south side of the building, and later new general science classrooms will be provided.

As there are more modern advancements in science and technology, so must high school science courses be expanded proportionately. To accomplish this, the subject matter of the various courses was broadened and intensified, and the classroom libraries increased and supplemented. Accelerated programs were likewise continued to challenge eager students. As for changes in classes, a second year of biology was added. This made a total of six subjects offered by the department.

Rightly proud of the standards and achievements of his department, Mr. Ruben Kuster, department head, summarizes that the main objective of quality science education is to prepare students for college and for life in a changing world.

The task of the Social Studies Department is to help young people to understand their rapidly changing, complex, inter-related world," summarizes Miss West.

This year, especially, material was world-centered. Emphasis was placed on the understanding of the future through interpretation and application of history, economics, sociology and other related social sciences.

To carry out the theme of "world orientation" in social studies effectively, some of the teachers did special work

Besides the 11 social studies courses previously offered three new classes were included. Commercial and Economic Geography were transferred from the Commercial Department to the Social Studies group, and a new course, World Geography, was added. An experimental class in Contemporary History, based largely on the discussion of world affairs and aimed to help the student understand the role of science and technology in the cultural crisis of our times, was opened last fall to a selected group of senior students.

James Thon, MS, Driver Education and Training Coordinator, Driver Education Supervisor, Adult Driver Education

After completing a period of classroom study, driver training students this year receive the opportunity to use the Drive-trainer and the dual-control car during their physical education, as well as study period. The fifteen Drive-trainers help students develop eye-hand-foot coordination and judgment. These machines also place students in emergency situations which might have disastrous consequences if met first on the road.

Two dual control cars offer students the opportunity for "on the road" practice under competent supervision. In these cars the students receive actual driving experience while gaining confidence in themselves and their ability to drive.

The nurses' office is staffed by two competent nurses. Through the facilities of the nurses' office and its staff, all students who are ill are quickly and correctly treated. Students wishing to improve their reading efficiency and speed may enroll with Miss Dorothy Cherrington at the Reading Center.

This year the center stressed quickening the speed and understanding in the reading of college-bound students as well as other interested persons through intensive vocabulary studies and the use of accelerator machines.

Students are admitted to the Speech and Hearing Clinic on the basis of a screening test, referral by a teacher, or personal request. Mr. Charles Moore then helps the student overcome his individual problems through the machines and other facilities of the modern, well-equipped laboratory.

at another school with Rocket Squad; often, if the team loses by a large margin or the weather is bad, the trip is more fun than the meet

Some people thought to be able to leave homeroom during XO periods was the best reason for being a homeroom representative or alternate. Those who joined one of Proviso's many organizations knew that even more important were the friendships that constructing a float or building a Charity Fun Night booth brought. The fun of decorating for a prom merged with the headaches of cleaning up after it to give each worker a sense of satisfaction. Long after the rest of the student body had left for home, the lights of practices for debate contests, water shows, or class parties still glowed. Tired though "joiners" were when finished, the feeling that they had contributed something to the school made the binged thumbs and growling worth while. This is ACTIVITIES AT EAST

Council Adopts Themes to Perk Up Fun Nights

"Now is the time for all willing students to come to the aid of their school" — this was the cry that echoed through the halls of Proviso as representatives of Student Council worked to develop the qualities of leadership and responsibility in all members of the student body.

Promoting co-operation among faculty, students, and administrators was the primary objective of this organization but giving service was also an important role. An all-time record was set in the 1960-61 drive for funds when $710 was collected for our "adopted school," Rankin Cove.

Student Council founded several new traditions this year, the first of which was having floats for Homecoming. The Council encouraged each class and all clubs to make colorful floats for the parade around the track between quarters. The first prize went to Key Club for their nebbish dressed as a pirate. Girls' League took second place with their float, which featured a pirate trying to prophesy the outcome of the game by pulling petals from a daisy.

Another new idea was to have themes for each fun night. Such themes as Sadie Hawkins turn-a-bout and Jingle Bell Rock highlighted the all-school fun nites. The Freshman Mixer had nebbishes as its theme while Senior Fun Night featured a "Surprise Package." Charity Fun Night, with its theme of Disneyland was christened "Dizzyland." This annual activity which climaxed Charity Week, collected money to be divided among such funds as heart disease, cancer, tuberculosis, and multiple sclerosis for aid and research.

Council Initiates Use of Floats for Half-time Parade

The monitor and co-op systems were among the many organizations which Student Council headed. They were a type of honor system which promoted independence and responsibility among a selected group of individuals.

In place of the notorious "wolf book," Student Council published an all school calendar which listed all of the various sports, social, and academic activities during the year. This allowed students to plan ahead for many future events.

Continuing with the two-year-old project of visiting all eighth grade classes to tell these students about the work of the organization had won many new friends for the Student Council.

Throughout the year, members of Student Council worked together as a team to make Proviso and its students the best ever. "Co-operation," says Mr. S. Storby, Student Council sponsor, "is the foundation for a successful organization."

Bows, Beaux Become Important to Girls' Leaguers

Packed with action, Girls' League activities required many people to make them the success that they were this year. The seventeen-member Board of Directors, consisting of class representatives, committee chairman, and the officers, made the basic plans and conducted the XO meetings.

The five committees and their chairmen then worked on their specific tasks such as: tying bows for Bow Week, making decorations for the socials, planning and serving food for dinners and teas, washing dishes and cleaning up after events, and planning entertainment for the various affairs. Important in the League's operations were the homeroom representatives who linked the Board with members.

To keep informed on what other Girls' Leagues were doing, 100 Proviso East girls shared a pot-luck dinner with the Evanston Girls' League before the Evanston Proviso basketball game in January. Toward the end of the year, several delegates also attended the Suburban Girls' League Conference. The Leaguers were guided by Mrs. Wolf, as sponsor

Step right up. See the tattooed lady! With the fair and atmosphere of the year's first social, "Carnival Capers," the Girls' League began its calendar of 23 fun-filled events.

In October, girls with their dads as dates enjoyed dinner at the annual Dad-Daughter Date Night, "Golden Beaux." Later, college-bound juniors and seniors gathered at the traditional "Gamma Lambda Tea" where they sipped punch and discussed college life. Homeroom representatives and alternates enjoyed a Hawaiian "LOAT" or "Luckiest of All [cas]" in the middle of winter.

Bow Week brought class rivalry and even shy freshmen danced around in their green trademarks. The Sock Hop, a girl-chase-boy affair, ended the week's competition between classes.

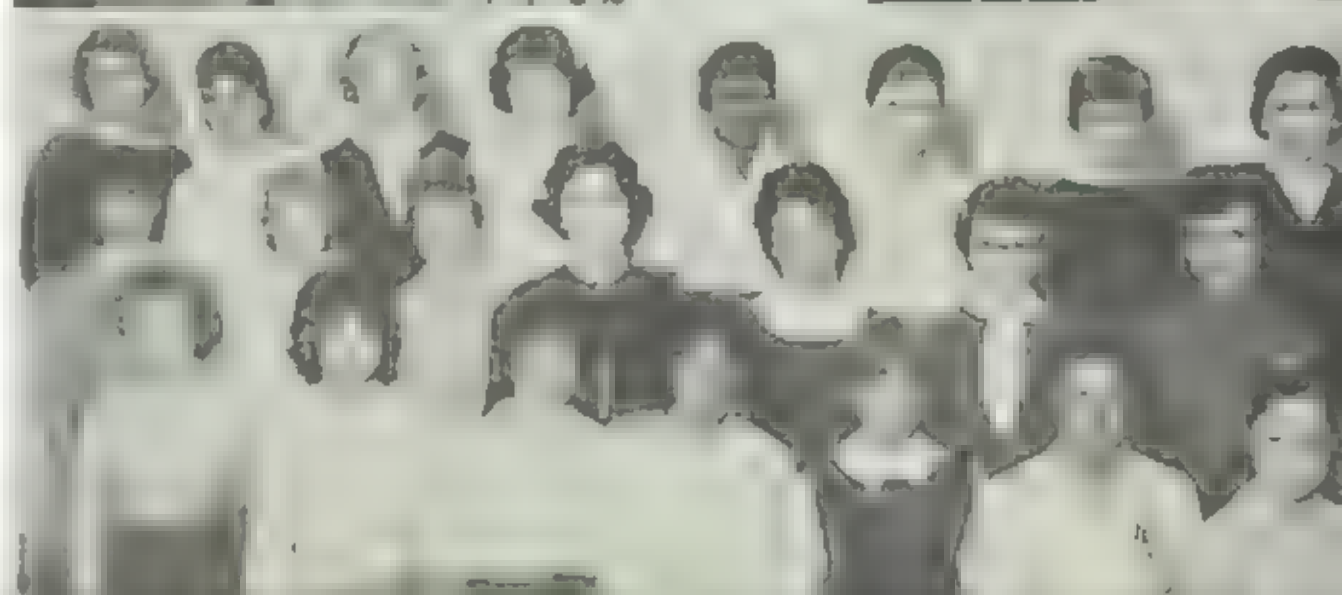

In March the Leaguers honored their mothers at the Mother-Daughter Banquet. Later in the spring, sophomores and seniors attended their teas.

Big Sisters, a section of Girls' League made up of Senior girls, helped freshmen and new students acquaint themselves with Proviso. In the fall, the girls gave a party for new transfer students called "Fall Frolics." Junior girls were interviewed and admitted to Big Sisters in the spring semester.

Scholarship Plus Service Characterize NHS Members

To honor seniors who have attained high scholarship and leadership, displayed high character, and given service to the school, is the chief aim of the National Honor Society. Teachers at Proviso East elected students to membership in the fall.

The list of candidates comprised those seniors who at the end of their junior year ranked in the upper twenty-five per cent of their class in both scholarship and character ratings. Twelve per cent of the candidates who ranked highest after the teachers' balloting became members of the society and were installed at the annual scholarship banquet. This year 79 seniors merited the honor. A steering committee of three students was appointed for the year to carry on any of the organization's business.

Those students wishing to learn more about particular colleges find the NHS library extremely helpful with its collections of catalogues describing entry requirements, courses, and housing. NHS members monitor the library.

Co-ops Grow in Numbers Add Merit System for All

In 1947 an idea became a deed. Proviso introduced the Co-op Study Hall System. Last year over 800 students were members of the 40 study halls which convened daily during every period.

This year's organization has moved forward with such improvements as a Merit System for both rovers and chairmen, better attendance at meetings, and a better means of keeping a record of warning blanks that were given out.

These have served as a means to enable students to become mature and to govern themselves in a democratic way.

Cine Members Study Projectors from Inside Out

Gaining valuable experience in electronics, the boys in Cine Club learned to operate the 22 sound projectors, to repair them, and also learned the mechanics of machines such as sound projectors, record players, and tape recorders.

Mr. C. W. Bills, who has been club adviser since 1942 states that the club began with one sound projector and one silent projector. The club presently has top national rating.

Extra activities of the club include bowling on Saturday mornings and selling programs at football games each year to pay some of the expenses of the club's social activities.

Lettermen's Clubs Sponsor Inter- Class Games

When a Proviso East athlete wins his first letter, he becomes a proud member of the Major or Minor Letterman's Club. These clubs promote good sportsmanship, keep up interest in Pirate athletics, and provide other athletic aids to their school and teams.

One of the major activities of these clubs is the sponsorship of the popular Junior-Senior game. The funds collected from this game are used to help defray medical expenses of Pirate athletes and to purchase juice and candy for team members after athletic contests. Later in the year, the clubs promote the Annual Senior-Faculty game to raise funds.

Sporting striking white sweaters, embellished with the blue Proviso "P," members of the Major Lettermen's Service Clubs provide ushering service at all home athletic contests. They also guide students and help to maintain order at Proviso pep assemblies. In addition to these regular services, the members of this club help to increase the respect of visitors for Proviso by setting examples of good sportsmanship.

Ushers Greet While Assembly Supervisors Seat

Organized to serve the school by ushering for all events designated by the administration, East's Ushers' Club strives to uphold its established traditions.

The club was composed of forty junior and senior girls, of which twenty were carry-over members and twenty were new members. Proposed members were rated by four teachers on points of cooperation, dependability, courtesy, neatness, attitude, and leadership. Those high-ranking girls were then interviewed by the board before the final decision on membership was made.

Assisting faculty members at assemblies, after game dances and Student Council functions, the assembly supervisors help maintain order. Helping people find places, keeping students orderly, and removing any disturbances that might occur are the main duties of this selected group of boys who are easily distinguished from the "masses" by their blue and white uniforms.

These freshmen, sophomore, junior, and senior boys, who must have at least a three point grade average, serve at the class assemblies under the leadership of Mr. Otto Boldt

Monitor Buttons Add Color; PTA Aids Students

Along with students, donating to Family Service, and providing instructional materials for the EMH group were all special projects of this year's 1100 family-member PTA.

During four meetings, the parents were entertained with a choral reading by the National Thespian Society, a talk by Mr. Harshbarger on improving parent-child relations through humor, a speech by Mr. Williams of Electric Motors, and several skits from Student Council Variety Show.

Something new has been added at East — colors. The Student Council provided different colored buttons for the monitor captains, the roving monitors, and the stationary monitors so that they may be distinguished in the halls. Under the guidance of Mr. Fleener, the sponsor, the monitors serve as hall guards and/or guides for parents at PTA meetings. The monitors must have a 75 grade average and be reliable and trustworthy in order to maintain their position.

The Key Club, an organization of boys chosen during their sophomore year on the basis of grade average and teachers' ratings, dedicates itself to serving others. The organization is patterned after the Kiwanis Club, and it serves both the school and the community.

Last year members donated their services in such activities as selling refreshments at football games, collecting Christmas gifts for orphans and a needy family, participating in the March of Dimes program, and serving at school banquets.

On the social side, the Key Clubbers entered a float in the Homecoming Parade which won first place. At the Fun Night following Charity week, the Key Clubbers again offered their services. In the fall they held their Third Annual Abstract Dance which is becoming a club tradition.

During the past summer, executive board members attended the international convention in Boston. This meeting gave them an opportunity to exchange ideas for improving their club as well as meet members from all the states.

AS MR. FRANK reads the blessing from the prayer book, the group includes Pete (Mark Lamos), Mrs. Van Daan (Sharon Foley), Mr. Van Daan (Darrell Pav), Mrs. Frank (Madeleine Forell), Mr. Frank (Charles Richards), Margot Frank (Norene Richards), Mr. Dussel (James Thiers), and Anne Frank (Brenda Bierbrodt).

Fall All-School Play Cast Presents Serious Drama

"I still believe, in spite of everything, that people are really good at heart."

With these words, spoken by Anne Frank, the theme of the first all-school play, "The Diary of Anne Frank," was set. Miss Elizabeth Little, director, and her assistant, Barbara Blyth, managed the play which was presented on November 2, 3, and 5.

"The Diary of Anne Frank" was the story of eight Jews fugitives from the Gestapo of Nazi-occupied Amsterdam. The play centered around Anne Frank (Brenda Bierbrodt), her parents (Charles Richards and Madeleine Forell), and Margot Frank (Norene Richards).

Struggling with the Frank's during their two-year confinement were Mr. and Mrs. Van Daan (Darrell Pav and Sharon Foley) and their son Peter (Mark Lamos). Later both families were joined by a dentist, Mr. Dussel (James Thiers).

Helping the Jews to safety and keeping them from imprisonment were Mr. Kraler (Arthur Stafford) and Miep (Gail Kaskowitz). Carmencita McDonald was bookholder.

Music for the play was supplied by the Proviso Concert Orchestra under the direction of Miss Donna Zimmerman.

"LOOK PETER, THE SKY" comforts Anne (Brenda Bierbrodt) as she tries to bring Pete (Mark Lamos) out of the depths of his despair.

Warranted, and the points are earned. Since the program is so new, the first 100,000 earned points are doubled. By April 1st, United Technologies' All-Win Week poster 21 starts a second year, starting and pointing out

Each year nine new energetic students, skilled in news-writing, rose from the ranks of the general staff to act as the head cogs in the Pageant's time clock machinery. Filling many hours with the scribbling of pencils, the staccato pounding of typewriters, and the crumbling of paper, our junior journalists, directed by Mr. Daniels, rushed to meet weekly deadlines. This, however, was his last year as sponsor.

Few Provisonites realize the amount of work which goes into the producing of the weekly issue. The deadline for the copy . . . err . . . articles is the Thursday before publication. The staff then spends the next Monday and Tuesday checking the galleys, the experimental prints of the articles, making up the pages, deciding where each article is to go; and doing other final and last minute jobs. Before the general student body even sees the new edition, writers have already been working long hours on another issue. Rush!

Always welcoming new ideas, this year's Pageant pages provided more space for personal comments by featuring two editorials. To broaden the horizons of students, the paper presented the "Contemporary Review"; and to keep future voters on their toes, the staff wrote a special election issue before the national D-day in November. Keeping with the times, other publications included back-to-school, Thanksgiving, college, Christmas, Easter, and graduation themes. These were all topped, of course, by the final exam issue, which contained various helpful hints to aid students in the taking of the tests and the bribing of the teachers.

Provi-ers Armed with Pencils and Paper Clips, Attack

Like a colony of busy ants, Provi-ers swarmed around the mounds of papers and pictures filling the Provi office in Room 218. Planning the "dummy," distributing work, writing copy and headlines, editing pictures, and meeting deadlines, all kept the editors and staff working.

The planning of this year's book, under the direction of Miss Eleanor Johnson, advisor, started last spring. Having spent a busy summer, the staff continued their work during the 7th period and regular Tuesday night meetings. The 1961 Provi has followed last year's triple-award winning book. Though basically the same in plan, this year's book included Junior individual pictures but lacked the Proviso

To understand yearbook production, the staff traveled to conferences throughout the year. Summer brought the National Scholastic Press Association Convention in Chicago. Cecy Christensen and Denruth Barre attended the summer yearbook session at Indiana University. In the fall, the staff attended the Chicago Scholastic Press workshop at Lyons.

Designing the covers, end sheets, and division pages for Provi was the job of the art staff under Mr. Nick Ernest. Aiding with the finances and distribution for Provi was the business staff supervised by Miss Dorothy Thompson. Staff members also supervised the junior and senior picture taking.

Students Practice Speeches For Tournament Competition

"My colleague and I seem to disagree with . . ." So these polite words of courtesy rang during the heated debates. Cool tempers and clear heads are musts for the debate team members. Then couple these traits with speaking ability, a sound knowledge of world problems and top debaters emerge.

To provide opportunities for competition, Proviso participated in many events throughout the year. Our school was a member of the Metropolitan Debate Union, consisting of the top sixteen debate teams in the Chicago area. This league produced some of the most outstanding debaters in the nation. Proviso was also a member of the National Forensic League, an honorary society for the superior high school speakers. This league sponsored both district and national contests. Some of the individual debate tournaments which found Proviso-ites participating were at Augustana College in Rock Island, East Peoria High School, and Northwestern University.

Debating the question, Resolved: That the U.N. Should Be Significantly Strengthened, the squad was a stiff competitor. Our reporters also found that the team was made entirely of underclassmen except for one Junior and two Seniors.

An interpretation of Shelley's poetry and a discussion of Red China's eligibility for participation in the United Nations represent the wide range of topics of forensics.

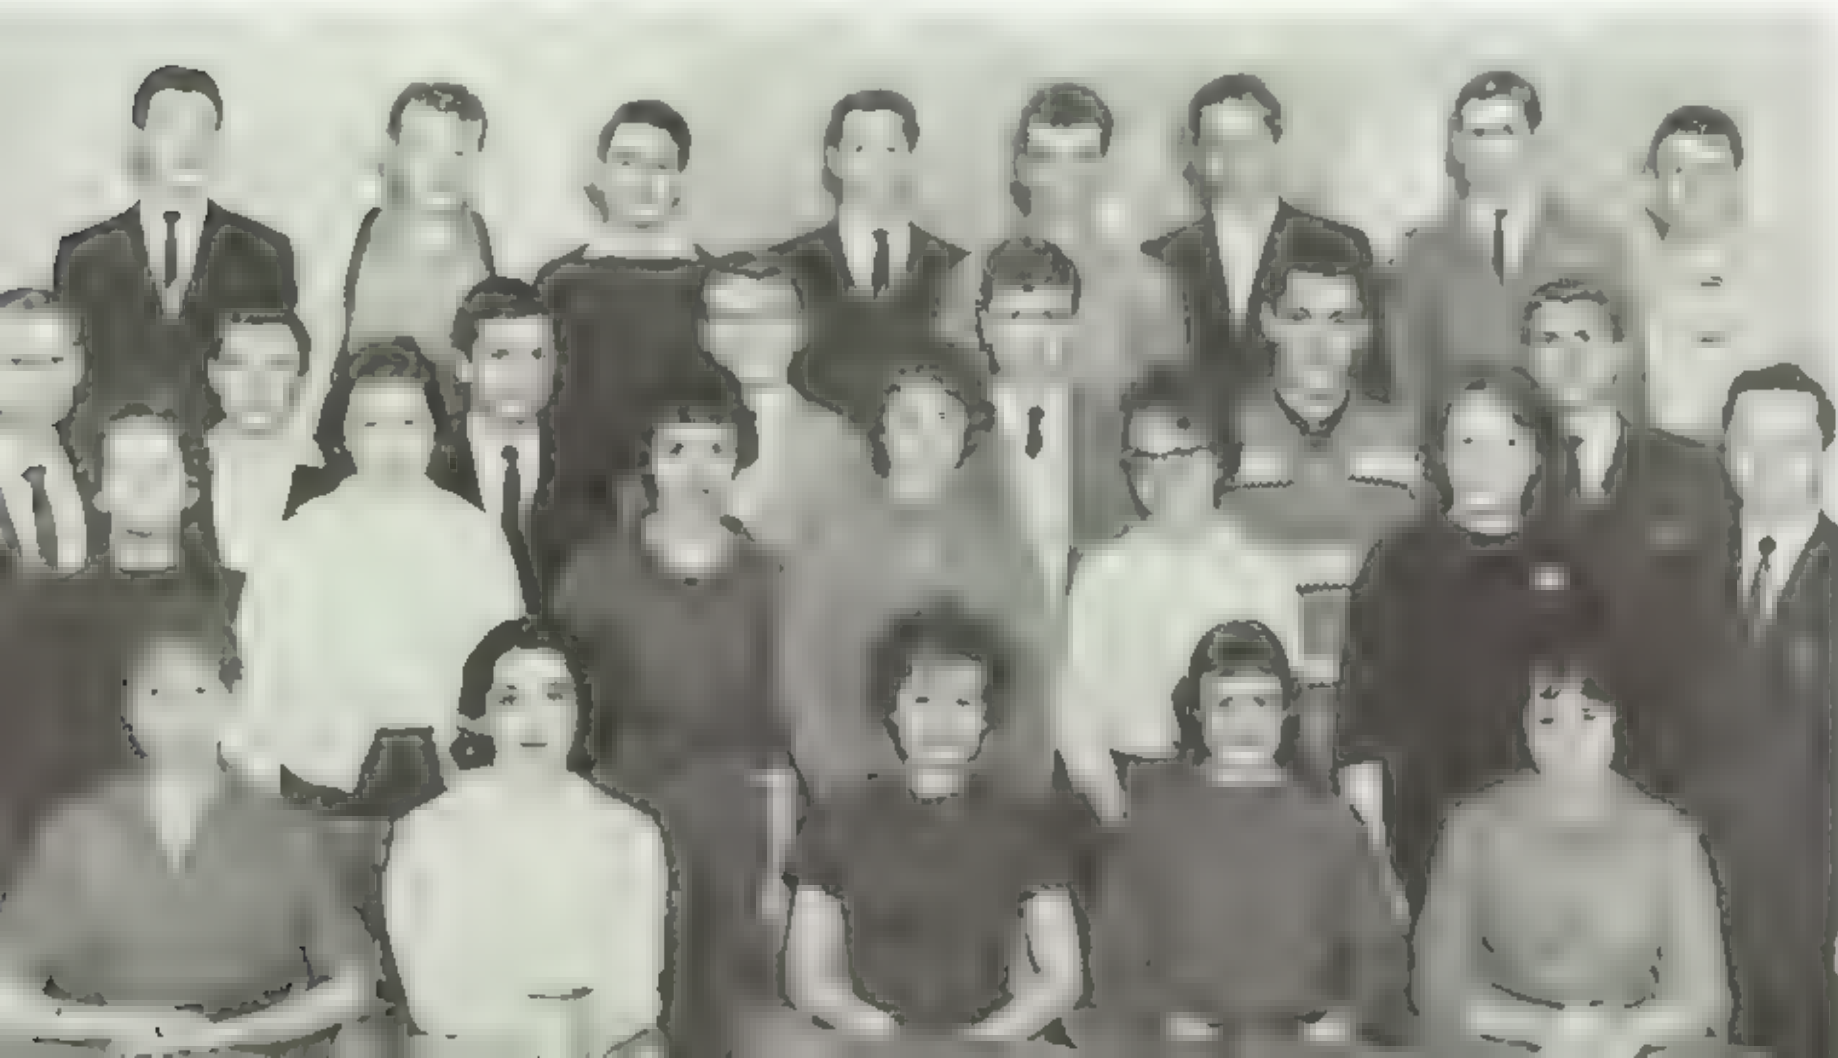

In the tournament at Waukegan, the team took fourth from among twelve teams while capturing second in eight at a Proviso West tourney. Twenty-four schools sent contestants to Aurora East where Bill Heck won a second place in humorous reading and Barb Blyth received an honorable mention in serious reading. Later at Peoria, Bill Heck moved up to first in humorous with Larry LaBadie taking third in original monologue and Sharon Foley winning a fourth in poetry reading.

New this year is the division of prose reading in which the contestant reads directly from a book as opposed to serious reading in which he takes a play cutting and may portray many characters with various gestures and expressions.

Initial Thespian Troupe 2090 Honors Actress Carol Lawrence

Encouraging students to attain a better mastery of language, to develop poise and self-control, and to appreciate dramatic literature and its techniques, are the specific aims of Troupe 2090 of the National Thespian Society. Opened to all students with a love for dramatics, this organization started its first year at Proviso East.

Numbering fifty-eight, this society has fifteen active members and forty-three apprentice members who have not yet completed the requirements for active membership. Sponsored by Miss Elizabeth Little, Mr. William Waack, and Mr. Clay Willmington, these students gained membership by giving time and effort to dramatics.

The Proviso troupe presented its first honorary membership to Carol Lawrence at the assembly held in her honor. Besides presenting skits at their regular monthly meetings, they have given readings for the PTA and other organizations. Their greatest production was a one-act play.

'Practice Makes Perfect' Profess Girls' Chorus

Wearing white skirts, pleated blue smocks, the eight members of the Girls Chorus were as recognized from every assembly. The members of this group were selected by tryouts from all their classes. Each year they have appeared to take the place of the girls who have dropped out. This year is a result of the skills gained through their classes with the previous year.

Mr. Whittey, director of the Girls Chorus, has a reputation for the girls to sing, that they were perfect in any type of song. The members of this chorus ranged from ten songs and songs through Christmas songs and all others to perform and sing sections.

In addition to their appearance in the school assembly, the Girls Chorus also performed at school assemblies.

Boy Singers Gain Both Training and Sore Throats

Have you ever seen a group of girls stalking around Room 520? Chances are they're pecking at the Boys' Chorus, an organization composed of 65 eligible males. Including freshmen, sophomores, and juniors in its membership this chorus was the intermediate group between the Freshman general chorus, the choir, and its special ensembles. Practicing three times a week, members gained the experience and training necessary for more advanced work in music.

Wearing their familiar royal blue sweaters and ties with white shirts, the boys performed several times throughout the school year. They joined the Girls' Chorus and Choir in presenting three major concerts in December, February, and April. In addition to singing at other school assemblies, the boys' chorus also traveled to several township grade schools where they gave programs intended to interest the eighth graders in the try-outs for Proviso East's Music Department.

Cream of the Crop Makes Up Top Choral Group

Let's try that number once more." Such constant practice and rehearsing helped to polish the choir for its performances this year. This organization, directed by Mr. Robert Davis, consisted of Proviso students with the time and talent to devote to choral activities. Composed primarily of upperclassmen, the members of the 110-voice group had much experience in music. Most were graduates of the Boys' or Girls' Choruses. These groups helped to prepare the student vocalists for advanced work through training in fundamentals of voice control and harmony. Since choir members met daily during 3rd period, choir participation became a fifth subject that often involved extra homework.

The choir offered many special opportunities. Promising members acted as soloists for various performances. Extra groups such as the Girls' Sextet, the Boys' Octet, and the Mixed Ensemble contained other talented members.

The choir and choruses combined to present three Sunday afternoon concerts this year. Large enthusiastic audiences enjoyed such selections as "The Creation," "The Song of Christmas," and delightful "Sound of Music." The choral groups also performed at local grade schools, for PTA programs, for special class assemblies, and other school functions. Individual choir members participated in vocal contests to win various awards and music scholarship grants.

Band Members Take Listeners Around Musical World

From the rousing strains of the "Overture to Semiramide" by Rossini to the grandeur of "Finlandia" by Sibelius, the 100-piece Concert Band of Proviso East, under the direction of J. Irving Tallmadge, stirred the emotions of all who heard it. The band performed four spectacular precision marching drills at the home football games. Two outstanding maneuvers last fall were the Teexas Show and the Pirate Show. Twelve fabulously costumed majorettes complemented the band in its shows.

The band performed two concerts this year; at one of these the majorettes performed. Leslie Heard, '62, danced to a Negro spiritual, "Dry Bones," at the first concert of the year in January. During this past year the majorettes twirled in the State Street Christmas Parade, the Variety Show, the Sock Hop, and at several basketball games. At the March concert they performed a lighted baton drill to the music of "Stars and Stripes" by John Philip Sousa. After the football season was over, the majorettes spent three days each week improving their precision tuning techniques and routines.

In the spring the band performed four concerts for the ap preciation of the student body. At its second concert last March, they featured the world's four greatest marches in "Journey in Music." The marches included "Stars and Stripes" by Sousa, representing the United States; "Pomp and Circumstance" by Elgar, representing England; "March Heroique" by Saint-Saens, representing France; and "Triumphal March" from "Aida" by Verdi, representing Egypt.

To continue its musical journey, the band played "Jamaican Rumba" by Benjamin, representing the West Indies; "Italian Polka" by Rachmaninoff; "Swedish Rhapsody" by Faeth; and "Invitation to the Dance" by von Weber, representing Germany. James Stange and Joseph Venturella were the guest conductors.

The money received from the concerts was put into the Scholarship Fund. Each year the Proviso East Band Association sends five of its top musicians to the summer Interlocken Music Camp, located in Northern Michigan. Under the direction of the world's finest teachers, students acquired a vast knowledge of music, music theory, and playing technique. Each year's band benefits by the efforts of the programs.

Presents Programs at Christmas, in Spring

This year Proviso students belonging to the orchestra displayed their talents, dressed in frilly formals and white jackets. Under the direction of Miss Donna Zimmerman who has received her bachelor's degree of Musical Education, they provided music lovers with enjoyment by their excellently balanced program.

On December 4, Proviso's strings, woodwinds, brass, and percussion presented Handel's "Largo" for strings, Richard Rodger's "Victory at Sea," and other selections by Bach, Mozart, and Haydn. To add variety three flutes were featured in Leroy Anderson's "Penny Whistle Song." In the spring, strains of Beethoven, Bizet's "Carmen Suite," and other compositions could be heard echoing through the halls as part of the preparation for the April 16 concert.

As an added attraction and to further the professional touch of the high school plays, the orchestra entertained the audience before, after, and intermittently through the course of the performances. Setting, enhancing, and maintaining the mood of the plays, the orchestra raised their entertainment value. During those long awaited moments of commencement, the stately measures of "Pomp and Circumstance" and "The War March of the Priests" filled the spring air.

To give parents a chance to see their ever practicing musicians, the annual Potluck Dinner was held. For entertainment the orchestra members were featured in a bass and flute duet, string quintet, and skit, based on a beatnik theme.

"Thank you, freshmen!" is the refrain which might well have been repeated. Fourteen freshmen joined the group this year to produce strains long to be remembered.

Blue Book Aids Members; Nekton Adds Members

Bluebook — the freshman's bible — is one of Proviso's most useful publications. It is a handbook of information essential to freshmen, and even bewildered upperclassmen. Since additions and revisions in the book are often necessary, the Blue Book is published every two years.

Every Wednesday after school eight girls work with Mrs. Flora Tworsey planning the '61 Blue Book. These girls check the information on each department and section of the school. After revising and bringing the material up-to-date, they re-check with the various departments. The work is divided so two girls work on each section. Beverly Kaspar, editor-in-chief, and her staff are also finding new pictures

Keep cool and swim! This year Nekton grew to include 35 swimmers and 8 land members. At the initiation of new members the meaning and objectives of the club were presented. As the girls pledged themselves to uphold these objectives, they were given deep blue and light blue ribbons. Besides their annual show at East, some of the members gave a performance for a women's club, swimming during the intermission of their style show.

This year, under the direction of Mrs. Bette Kucera, there was emphasis on individual expression through variations of aquatic figures. The club planned to participate in the Illinois Division of the International Academy of Aquatic Art

Vocations

Machine Shop Club Members Build Projects, Weight Stands

Though they get their hands dirty, junior and senior boys who belong to the Machine Shop Club don't mind since participation in the vocational curriculum is a prerequisite for membership.

With Mr. William Johnson guiding the juniors and Mr. John Oklepek sponsoring the seniors, the boys built machine parts for science projects and constructed equipment for the departments after school and during their free time.

Some of these projects consisted of building batting practice cages and weight stands for the physical education department, and reshaping bent musical instruments for the music department.

Costs for the projects are low for the students and for the departments because the materials are provided free or at a wholesale price by local distributors and supply houses.

PANNING AHEAD, machine shop boys demonstrate manual skill

FBLAers Practice for Competitive Business World

Displaying merchandise, stocking shelves, and waiting on student customers are a few of the practical job experiences that Future Business Leaders meet in running the school store. This balanced combination of service, learning, and fun helps to make Proviso commercial students well-rounded efficient business personnel. Besides operating a school store for their fellow Provisitors, FBLA'ers also serve by selling refreshments at basketball games. Additional club activities such as receptions, dances, state and national conventions area conferences, and field trips fill the club's calendar.

Leading this group of enterprising young businessmen is Mr. Robert Stickler of the Commercial Department. Under his direction the numerous functions and plans of the club are carried to completion. Mr. Stickler is also active as the chairman of the Illinois Future Business Leaders.

The FBLA, the organization having the largest membership of any Proviso extra-curricular activity is very important in developing the interests and abilities of its members to the greatest extent. Techniques and skills acquired in the club's business world atmosphere are very valuable to the student after graduation. It is generally accepted that in the highly competitive world of today and tomorrow experienced FBLA'ers will be favored for top positions.

Freshmen Enrollees Increase Strength of Future Nurses

This year there appears to be an increased interest in nursing as a career. The freshman girls constitute the largest membership ever held by one class in the Future Nurses of America.

To encourage girls to enter nursing as a profession, visits to various hospitals and nursing schools are made by bus. Girls attend the lectures and take tours to see the actual operation of hospitals. They began their round of outings this year by visiting St. Francis and St. Elizabeth hospitals.

The girls also sew children's clothes and stuff animals for hospitalized children in order to acquaint FNA members with the duties of a nurse.

This year the girls announced a first for their club — a "members only" splash party in the redecorated girls' pool.

Future Teachers Usher at National Council Meeting

Guiding the crowds at the National Council of Teachers of English almost made Future Teachers of America change their minds about the teaching profession. Fifteen girls served as guides for this council at the Morrison Hotel during Thanksgiving vacation.

Panel discussions, accredited speakers, and lively "buzz sessions" helped to increase the members' knowledge of teaching and also offered hints to them for later years.

Although the FTA's social teas at school and their responsibilities for ushering at teacher institutes offer a variety to the members' activities, Future Teachers of America is primarily designed to encourage, to train, and to offer aid to students who show interest in the teaching field.

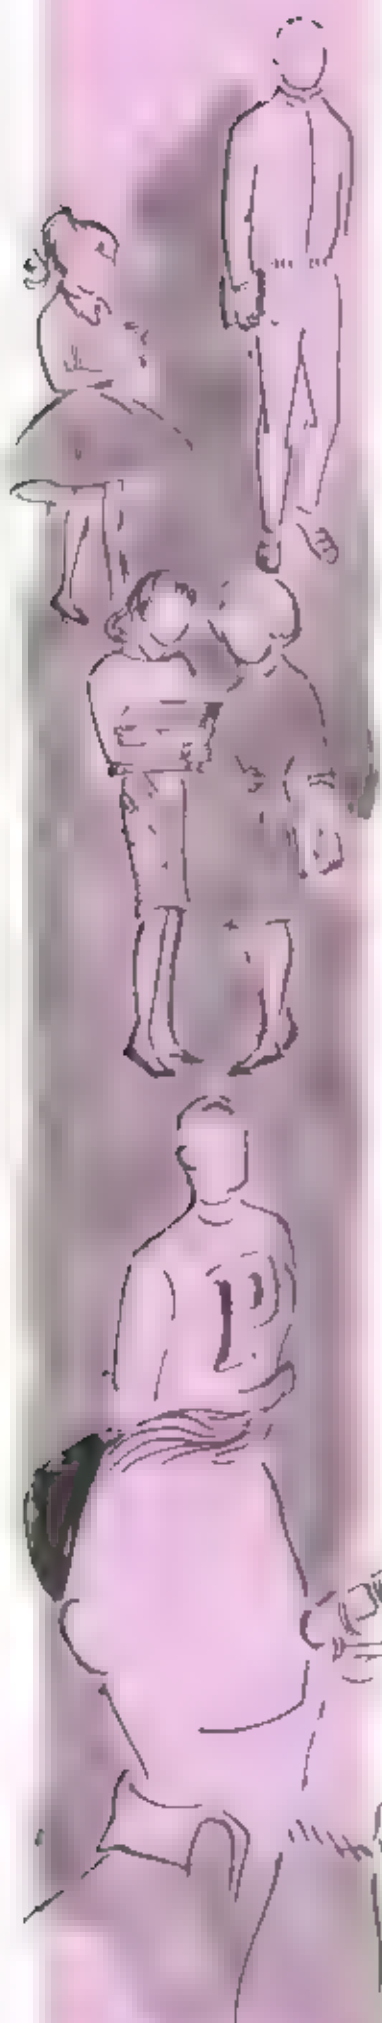

Advisors, Mrs. Emily Shockley and Mr. William Hines, hope to discover outstanding students and to develop the sincere feeling among members that they will "gladly teach."

HALLS FILL QUICKLY after the bell rings because some students

rush to pamper a temperamental sock, to get a place in the cafeteria line, or to meet a friend. Others take their time in walking to the next class.

Serious religious discussions blossomed over potato chips and milk cartons in the cafeteria. An open locker with a group of girls lingering around it was a perfect place to hash over last night's dates. An empty study hall or the library after school were places to meet a friend and just talk. With the abundance of Provisos of all temperaments, two or three with the same tastes often found each other in the scramble. Organizations helped but usually the classroom was the meeting ground. The girl across the aisle in study hall, or the person behind you in biology was friendly and easy to get to know. Proviso fostered friendships which lasted through noisy basketball games, occasional arguments, pajama parties, and homework bouts. This is STUDENTS AT EAST

Freshmen Storm Proviso, Forget Combinations

FRESHMEN with varied expressions rush across street in eager anticipation of first day of high school under watchful eyes of police officer.

FROSH GIRLS wait to see in what homeroom they have been placed.

FAMED Blue Books get distributed by Mr. Sanservino.

Did you ever rush to your locker during an all too-short passing period only to find your lock had been put on upside down and backwards? If you did, you probably were late to your next class. Many freshmen had this plight to remember along with dropping their loaded tray in the cafeteria or tripping on the freshly waxed marble tower stairs and falling down a half a flight amid their loose books and papers. Upon entering Proviso in September, many freshmen were perplexed by the seemingly answerless puzzle of long and short halls, nonconsecutive room numbers, and locker combinations. As frosh became a part of the school they got used to milk tickets and library slips. Monitors demanding blue out-of-the-room passes at every turn in the hall seemed less formidable as the year progressed. New topics, such as Ivanhoe, which had previously only been taught to the seniors, gave freshmen the chance to express themselves as originally as they could. Enthusiasm for sports events came as easily as the loyalty for a new school. The first Homecoming, the charity fun night, and the freshman dance in the spring added to the memories of a year filled to the brim with new experiences.

Fellows Enjoy Watching Girls; Girls Reciprocate

Setting aside blue books, last year's Freshies became this year's upper under classmen. Engaging in more social activities, the boys developed confidence and aggressiveness. The girls gained ease and their steadies' rings. Unable to get Dad's car, couples dated at the Student Council Fun Nites and at the annual Sophomore party which was held in April. The ever present stag line was still there. Under the sponsorship of Mrs. Collins, the class officers and the homeroom representatives met for the Sophomore Cabinet during the XO periods. They discussed and planned the calendar for the social activities of the year. Sophomores encountered Silas Marner, tackled Idylls of the King, and conquered Julius Caesar during their English classes. Drivers' education enlightened the hopes of getting licenses upon becoming sixteen. Girls received advanced swimming lessons and water ballet instruction in Physical Education. Sophomores had learned the ropes, their acquaintances and interests had widened.

Piles of Books, Cramped

Rock of Chuamauga? . . . never heard of him! What is the focal width of  $y^2 = 8x^2$ ? With such puzzles bewildered Juniors started their third year diving into a stream of studies and activities. For homecoming the 62'ers, under the guidance of Mr. Ray, class sponsor, and the class officers, took part in the homecoming parade with a huge football float of yellow carnations. The winter basketball season brought the Junior-Senior game. Juniors, dressed in traditional red, with faces flushed, thrilled as their classmates played a close exciting game. December excitement heightened as Juniors donned semi-formal attire to attend the annual ball, "Crystal Moments." In a land of pine boughs and shining ornaments couples danced to the Don Caron orchestra. The new year found Juniors cramming for exams and "contemplating suicides." Girls dressed in Sunday clothes in February to meet their secret pals at their special Girls' League party, "Side by Side." Wearing pretty corsages, the girls enjoyed refreshments and a fashion show. Jumbled nerves and feverish hopes marked the end of the school year at the Academy Awards Assembly where Junior candidates and classmates waited for the election results and anxiously looked forward to the opportunities of their final year.

Senior Senate Controls Class Activities, Decides

Overwhelmed by being top brass at East, the Class of '61 whirled its way through many exciting moments and fun-filled events. The arrival of class rings brought a herd of rushing seniors to receive their rings. While excited onlookers watched, the seniors battled it out against the juniors and faculty in two tense basketball games. A thrilling trip through the Canadian Rockies on Stan Midgley's bicycle and a magical demonstration of how to get in success proved exciting class party assemblies during the first semester. In December the National Council of Teachers of English announced three seniors as winners of the annual composition contest. Senior girls attended the informative "Gamma Lambda" college tea in November and a sentimental last sip in May. Sponsored by seniors was the fun night "Surprise Party." English Classes toiled their way through Macbeth, Ivanhoe, and Tale of Two Cities. In the struggle for class colors, lavender and white won. At the Senior prom, couples spun around to a Polynesian theme. As the first gold '61's were put on graduation caps, seniors anticipated their future of leadership.

Protest a much needed scoring position. The Homecoming game, although its outcome was disappointing, gave the fans some exciting moments.

Bouncing on a trampoline, splashing to a close finish, or leaping for a jump ball all required the most Provisories had to give. Training schedules seemed rigorous and practices endless. The coach's booming voice and the cheers of the crowd and teammates urged every member of the squad to "sink it," "press him," "make that touchdown" or just "win." To be the best in his event strained the muscles, endurance, and determination of every competitor. Homework was often undertaken on the bumpy ride home in the bus from away meets, but the quality was as good as that of any other student because a low grade average meant expulsion from the team. Often late games brought little sleep and a long stretch between meals; but, as a deserving athlete received his blue "P" at an awards assembly, he realized the rewards and praise were worth the effort. This is TEAMS AT EAST.

Picked by pre-season predictors to take the cellar position in the Suburban League, the Pirates surprised everyone by winning their first three conference games to take fourth place in the league.

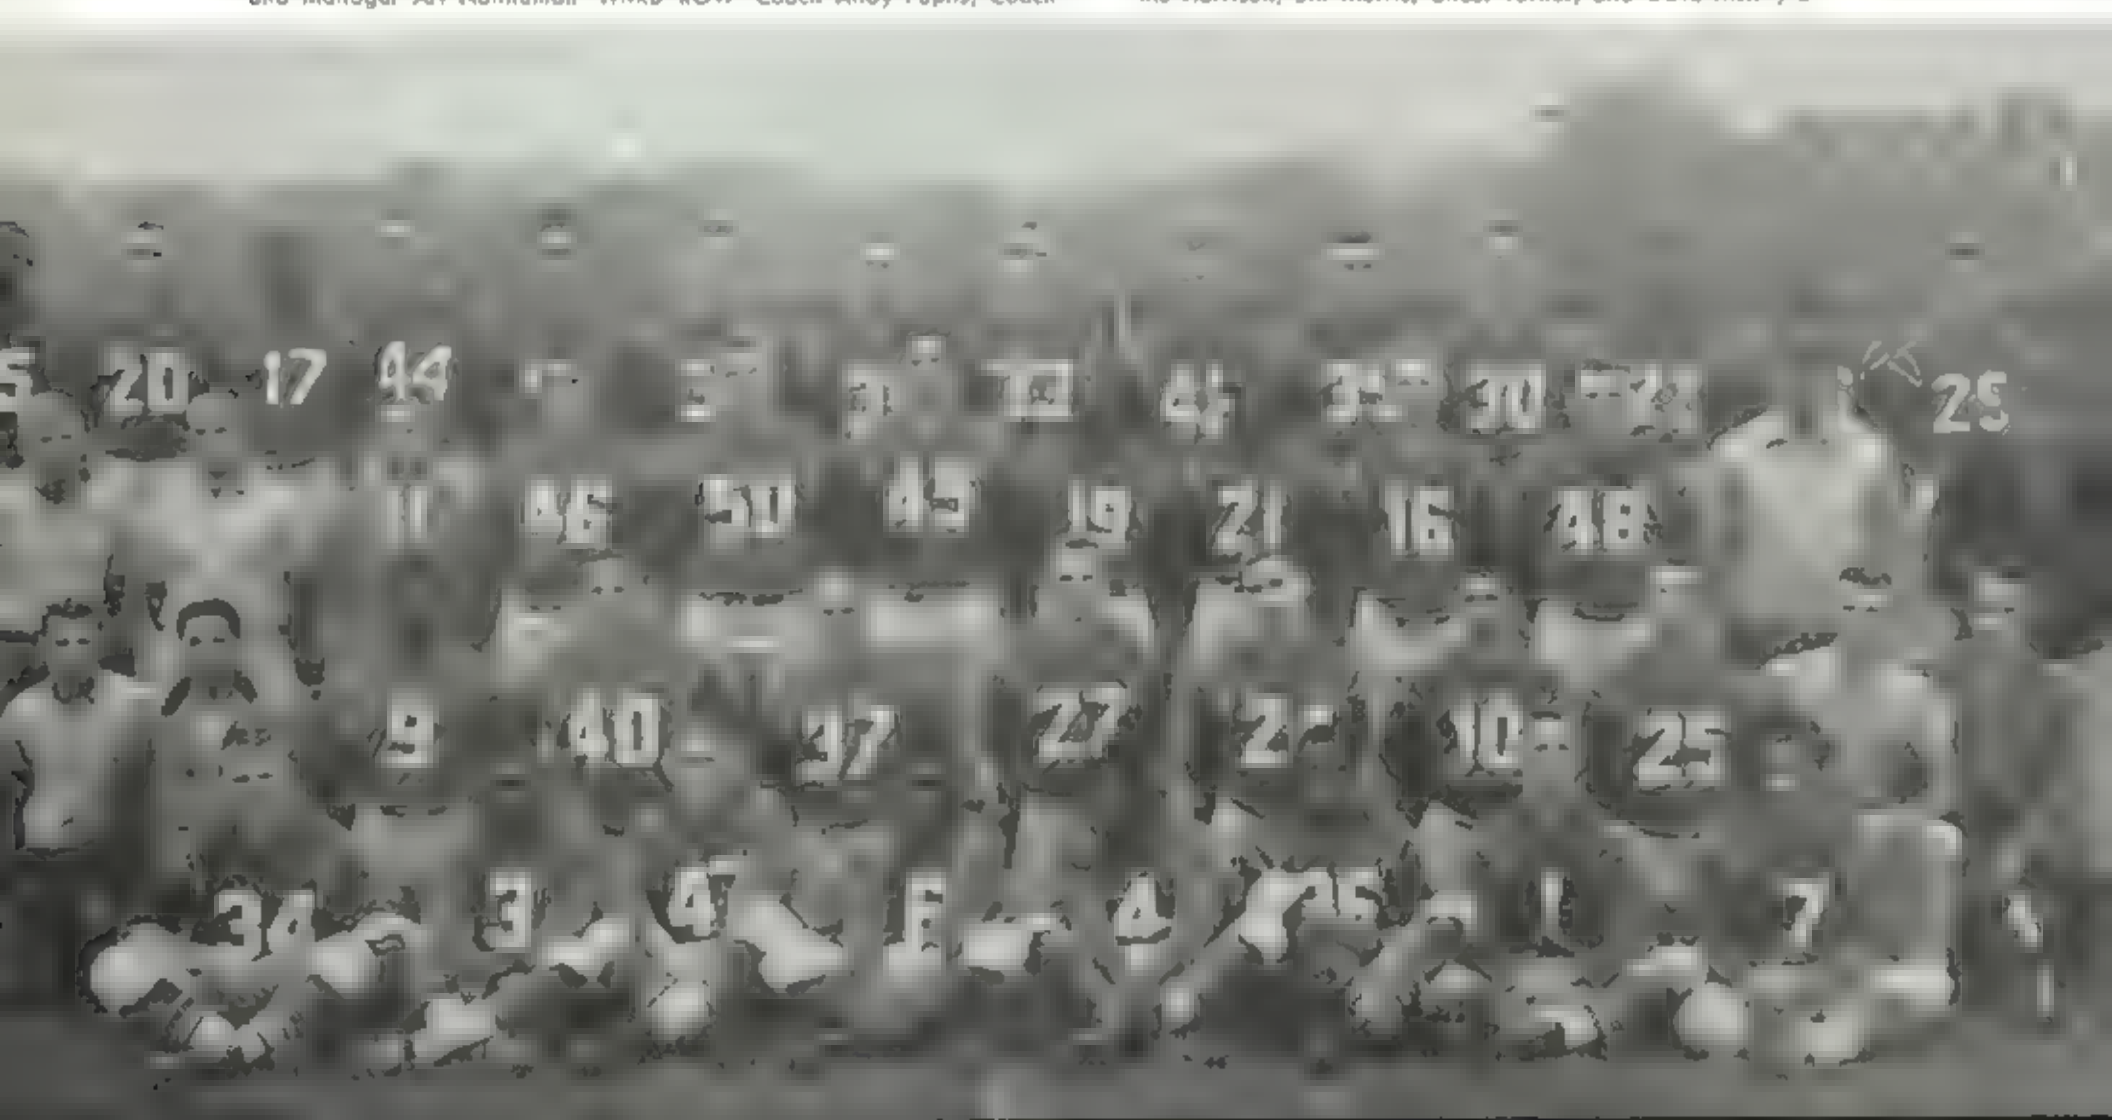

After dropping the opening game to Aurora in a close battle, the Pirates roared back to win their first three conference games. However, they were stopped by powerful New Trier and Waukegan squads and were not able to regain their footing. Closing with a 3 - 4 - 0 league standing Coach Puplis' charges shared fourth spot with Morton and Waukegan.

At the close of the season, several Buc gridders won honors. Walt Stinson and Ken Norton made first team All conference. Conference Honorable Mention went to Willie Long, Gus Hoffman, John Bilenko, Dennis Harrison, Fred Custardo, and Dave Holian for their fine play this season.

AURORA 7 — PROVISO 6

Early in the second quarter, Leo Howard scored on a 7-yard run, giving the Pirates a 6-0 lead which they held through most of the game. In the last quarter, the Tomcats scored on a 2-yard plunge and picked up the deciding point-after-touchdown.

PROVISO 6 — HIGHLAND PARK 0

Bouncing back from their defeat a week earlier, the Pirates beat Highland Park 6-0. Leo Howard scored Proviso's lone touchdown on a 40-yard end run early in the third quarter.

PROVISO 22 — OAK PARK 12

In the annual contest with Oak Park, the Pirates again displayed their offensive strength, gaining a total of 333 yards compared with 182 yards for the Huskies. Proviso scored two touchdowns and a safety in the first half. Another touchdown in the third quarter completed the Pirate scoring. The Huskies were held scoreless until the final quarter when they tallied twice against the Buc second team.

PROVISO 21 - NILES 13

Proviso scored the upset of the year by beating the highly favored Trojans 21-13. The Bucs left the field at halftime trailing Niles by 13 points, but returned to score three times to the dismay of the large homecoming crowd.

NEW TRIER 41 - PROVISO 12

The Pirates fell before mighty New Trier to receive their first conference loss of the year at Proviso's Homecoming. New Trier led throughout the game and held the Pirates scoreless until the last quarter. Six untimely Buc fumbles contributed to their defeat.

WAUKEGAN 20 - PROVISO 7

Showing surprising offensive strength, Waukegan jumped to an early lead and continued to plow through the Pirate defense in the first three quarters. The lone Buc tally was picked up in the fourth quarter by sophomore Dave Pasiacki on a one-yard plunge.

EVANSTON 32 - PROVISO 6

Proviso bounced back from an early Evanston lead by scoring on a 50-yard pass play from Fred Custardo to Willie Stinson. Trailing by only one point at halftime, the Bucs gave the title-bound Wildkats one of their toughest games.

MORTON 28 - PROVISO 13

The season's final game found the Pirates facing a Morton squad whose first string was intact for the first time. Proviso moved to within one point of the Mustang lead in the third quarter but 2 TDs put the game on ice for Morton.

Sophomore Gridders End Season With 5-2-1 Record

After an undefeated season last year as freshmen, the Pirate sophomore squad, under Coaches Dick Barham and Dan Braucher, finished their season with a 5-2-1 record.

Not everything can be determined from the won and lost record, however. The soph squad lost four outstanding backs to the varsity squad at the beginning of the season.

Showing fine spirit and determination Coach Barham's men defeated East Aurora, Highland Park, and Oak Park in their first three games. The sophomores seemed to be back in their winning ways until they tied a tough Niles club 7-7 in Skokie.

Prospects of being undefeated were halted when they were defeated 19-0 by an inspired New Trier team. In their last three games the team defeated Waukegan, dropped a tough game to Evanston, and finished the season with a victory over Morton.

Sylvester Smith and Dick Rush, two outstanding performers for the sophs, were elected honorary co-captains by their teammates. In addition to the fine backfield jobs of Smith, Basco, Jackson, and Brunst, the soph line was there to open the holes for them and outguess their opponents.

Coaches Don Sanservino and Gordon Busse guided the hot and cold Junior Varsity squad through a 5 won, 2 lost season. The Jayvee squad exhibited strength and depth at all their Monday afternoon games. The Monday strength can be credited to the fact that the varsity players who did not see action in that week's varsity game were permitted to play in the junior varsity game. Unfortunately these varsity men were not available for the Jayvee's two Saturday games. Despite this loss of manpower, for the majority of their games, they finished with an impressive record.

In their first two games of the season, the Buc Jayvees overpowered two ineffective squads from Shurz and St. Procopius. Next they eked out a 6-0 victory over a strong Niles squad.

The next two games were depressing experiences for the Bucs. These two encounters, played on Saturdays, found the Jayvees defeated by both Oak Park and New Trier. Evanston forfeited a game to the junior varsity eleven and left the squad anticipating their final game with Morton.

The Pirates played their finest game of the year against Morton, showing strength and determination against an equal opponent, which finally fell in defeat by a large score.

The Pirate freshman B squad under the direction of Mr. Merbitz and Mr. Milliken lost games to Oak Park, New Trier, Waukegan, and tied Oak Park, but they defeated Evanston and Morton. The Bucs dropped their first two meets with Lane and New Trier before beating Waukegan 24-31. The next three meets saw the Pirates bow before the LaGrange, Evanston and Niles teams. In the Suburban League meet, Bruce Miller placed fourth, with the team as a whole taking sixth.

The Bucs finished the season by losing to Highland Park, beating Morton, and losing again to Oak Park.

The Pirates got off to a good start with resounding victories over Elgin, Evanston, and West Aurora. However, in their second Suburban League contest, the blue and white fell before a strong Morton squad by a score of 49-34.

After beating Highland Park, the Big Blue climbed to the DeKalb Holiday Tournament Championship, sweeping over teams from Waterman, St. Charles, Sycamore, West Aurora

Win DeKalb Tournament

In the first game of the DeKalb tournament, the Braves defeated the Warriors, the eventual champion, by a point with a play at the end of the game.

Next the Braves played last St. Charles and won by a point. The game was very close, the Warriors leading 15-14 at the end of the first quarter. The Braves then won the game by a point.

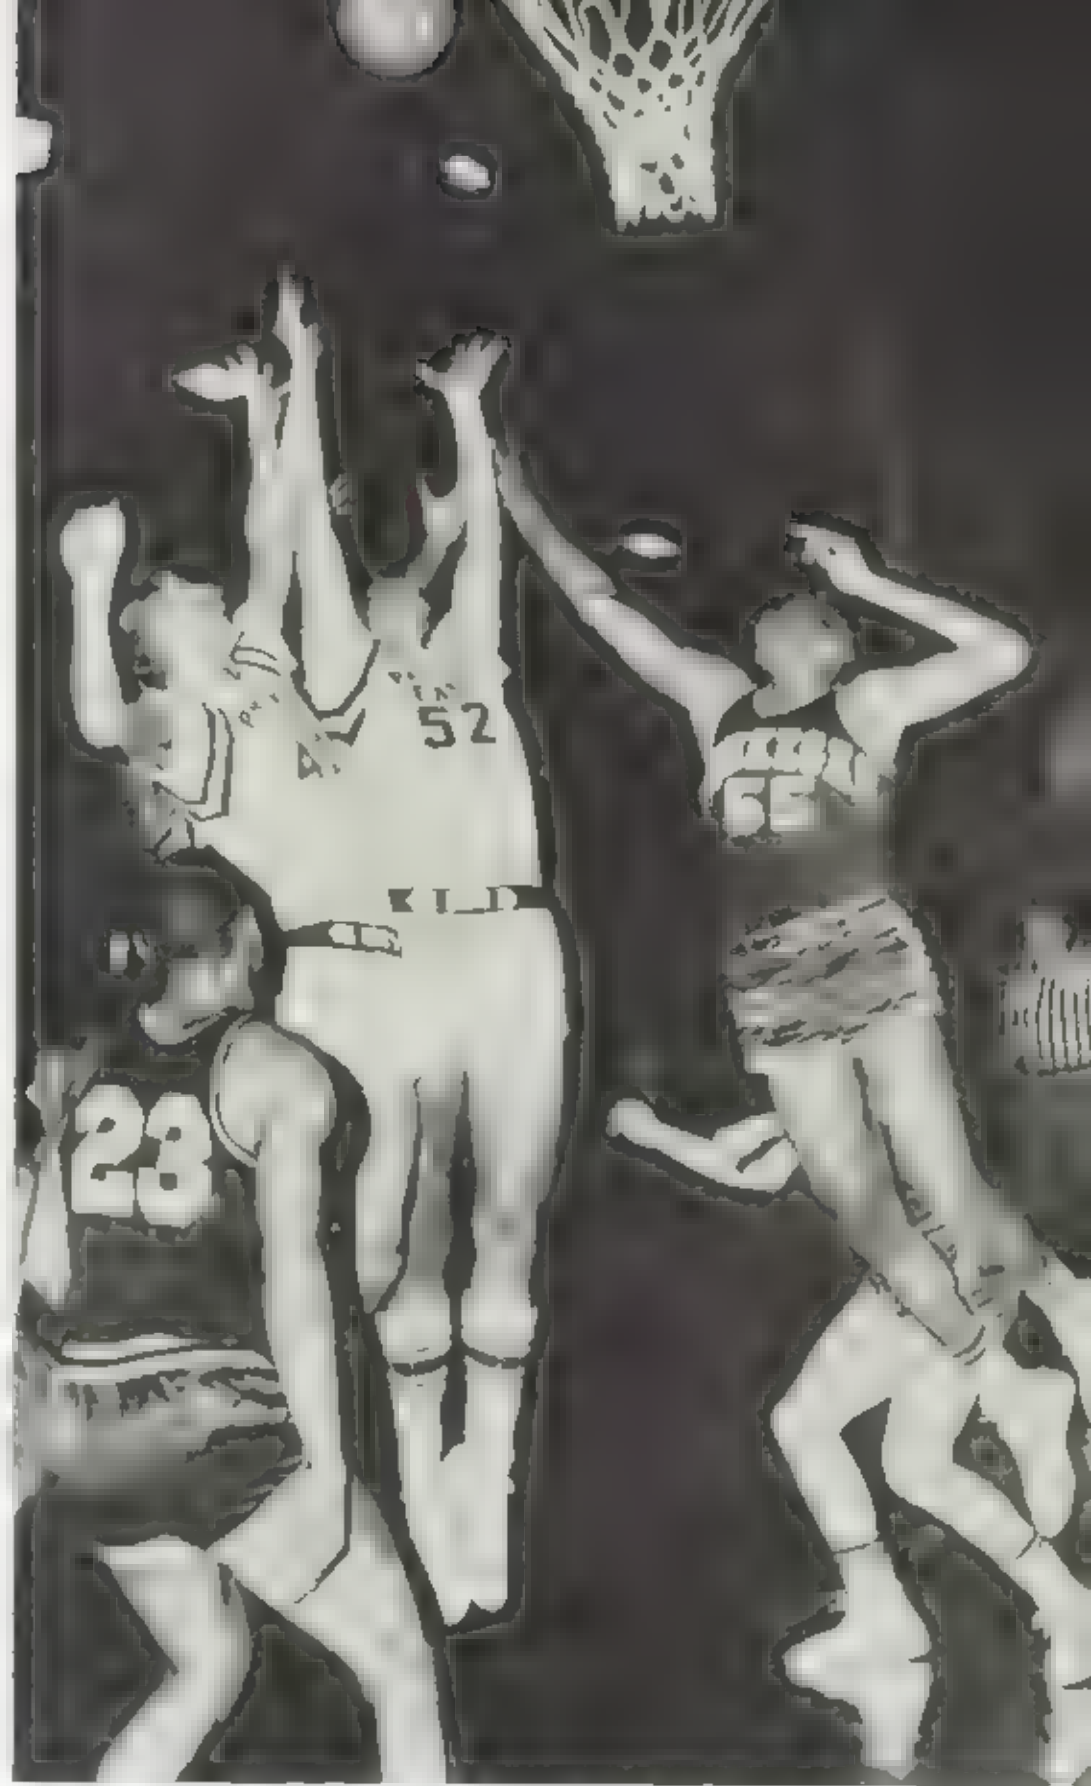

With eight Braves and several home supporters, they played the final game of the tournament, a 14-14 tie, which was the final game of the tournament.

Oak Park scored four points in the nine seconds but still trailed 48-49 with two seconds to play. Rather than risk a foul, the Pirates allowed the Huskies to score. The Bucs captured the second title by a bare one point margin.

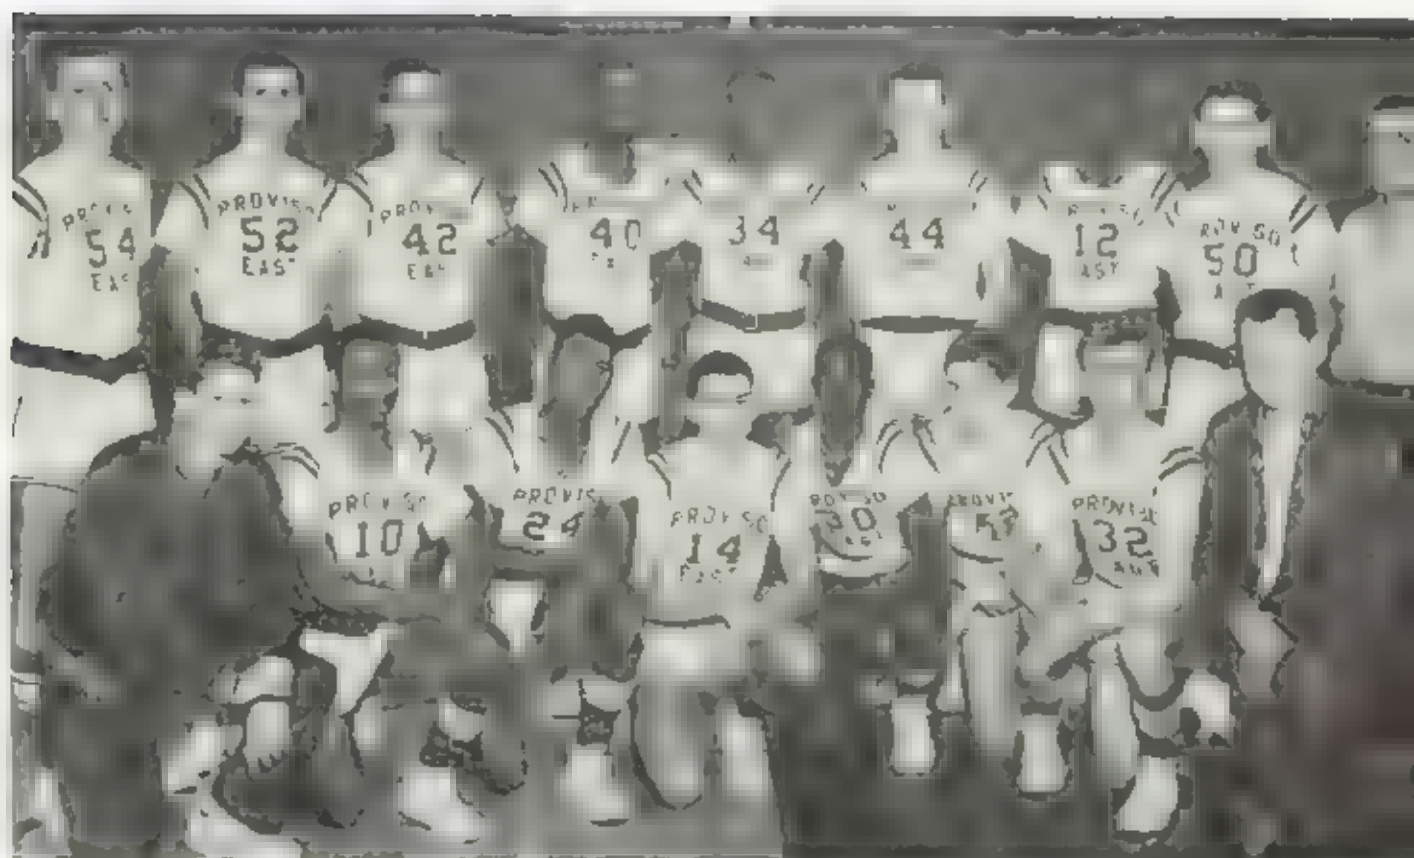

This victory turned the Pirates to the Hinsdale Sectional Tournament and pitted them against the previous twice-champion Morton Mustangs. After an early 3-3 tie, the Mustangs vaulted to a nine point first quarter lead. By the end of the first half, Morton had stretched its advantage to 14 points. In the second half, the Pirates began a steady comeback which narrowed the Mustang margin to two points. Nevertheless, the drive fell short as Morton pulled ahead again in the last seconds for a 41-36 victory at the finish.

Coached by Mr. John Tiefenthal, the sophomore cagers won 13 of 14 conference games to take the Sophomore Suburban League Championship. The Soph cagers had a fifteen game winning streak going into the last game only to be dumped by Waukegan in the final game by one point. Of the approximately sixty boys who reported for the team in November, fifteen remained at the end of the season. Pirates Leo Howard, John Stinson, Sylvester Smith, Richard Johns, and Allen TeBockhorst were outstanding players throughout the season. These Bucs continually sparked the team to its 15-1 record and league honors. The sophomores sank 782 points to the 513 points dunked by their opponents. ## Swim Team Builds Strength While Searching for Depth

In their second season under the direction of Coach Don Watson, the Pirates varsity swim team finished fifth in the Suburban League while breaking three school records and one pool record in the process. The Bucs exhibited outstanding individual performances, but the team posted a deceptive three won, eight lost, and two tied record in the dual meet competition. The swimmers were plagued by a lack of personnel for a great number of these dual meets. Sickness put an extra strain on the swimmers who could compete because many times they were called on to swim events which were quite close together. The fact that the merman lost five of their meets in the last relays, and then only by a few points, is an example of the effects of this lack of personnel.

Long practices and determination enabled the East swimmers to exhibit three outstanding individual performers. Norman Youngsteadt, the Proviso breaststroke ace, shattered the school record six different times in the 100-yard breaststroke. As a fitting finale to his high school career Youngsteadt placed fifth in the state, and he is a strong contender for national recognition due to his fine times in his event.

George Goff, a junior, gave the team great strength with his record-breaking performances in the 100-yard backstroke. Goff lowered the school and pool records in his event considerably, and he also placed fifth in the state meet. Another junior, Hugh Muir, added much needed strength to the Proviso freestyle competitors. Muir broke the school record in the 100-yard freestyle, and he narrowly missed breaking the record in the 50-yard freestyle. On the strength of these individual performers the Pirates placed fourth in the Riverside Brookfield Invitational Meet and then placed eighth in the state competition to complete the season.

GEORGE GOFF, East's junior backstroker, demonstrates the form with which he gained success in many varsity meets this season.

The Pirate soph swimmers, under the direction of Mr. Jenks and Mr. Parker, worked their way to a fifth place finish in the Suburban League. The soph mermen also felt the effects of a lack of personnel, but they were stronger man for man than any other previous Proviso team.

Exhibiting outstanding individual performances for the sophs were Howard Brown, Gary Renton, and Carl Johansen. Howie Brown set a new school and a new Suburban League record in the 50-yard breaststroke. Brown competed on the varsity level for the better part of the season, and with his excellent performances he qualified for the state meet in the 100-yard breaststroke.

Gary Renton neared the soph record in the 50-yard butterfly, while his performances in that event gained him a position on the varsity 200-yard Medley relay team which qualified for the state meet. Carl Johansen showed great improvement during the season, and he gave depth to the sophomore freestylers.

In the process of building, the Proviso freshman swimmers exhibited strength in finishing fourth in the league. Fresh standouts included backstroker Paul Sonnenberg who broke the school record in his 50-yard event. In addition, backstroker Carl Huestler and freestylers Paul Martins and Gary Marine helped pace the freshmen with their performances.

Finishing the 1960-1961 season with a 10-4 overall dual meet record, Proviso East's varsity wrestlers captured fourth place in the Suburban League. The Bucs rolled over Highland Park, New Trier, and Oak Park in league competition but fell before powerful squads from Evanston, Waukegan, Niles, and Morton.

In non-conference meets, Pirate grapplers maintained an undefeated record by beating Levden East, Riverside Brookfield, Hinsdale, Oak Lawn, La Grange, York, and Glenbrook. In the annual Waukegan Invitational, Proviso again displayed its might by taking second with 53 team points.

The Pirates placed third in the State District Tournament, scoring 55 points. Don Schneider and Dave Holian emerged as district champs. Of the twelve boys entered in the district meet, seven moved on to the sectionals, where they tallied 52 points for a good second place. Don Schneider and Dennis Harrison won sectional championships.

Finishing a highly successful season, Coach Jack Marino's grapplers took tenth place in the state finals with a tally of 19 points. Of the 140 boys entered in this meet, twenty-eight home medals. Don Schneider captured the state championship in the 95 pound class, and Dave Holian placed fourth in the 154 pound class, thereby bringing more honors to East.

Finishing the '60-61 season with a 1-6-1 dual meet record, Proviso East's Jayvee wrestlers copped sixth place in the Suburban League. The Bucs dropped three meets to Leyden West, Morton East, and LaGrange before tying Oak Park and defeating New Trier. Three more losses to Waukegan, Evanston, and Niles completed the season.

Coach Kassel's soph grapplers placed seventh in league competition with one win and six losses. In non-conference meets, the Pirates again held a 1-6 record. Mack Brown and Mike Holian distinguished themselves undefeated.

Baby Buc wrestlers under Coach Lou Shimmer captured second spot in the Suburban League with a 7-1 record. They defeated Leyden West, Morton East, Lyons, Oak Park, New Trier, Evanston, and Niles and they lost only to Waukegan.

Varsity Netmen Place Hopes on Junior Squad

Although they dropped their first two meets of the '61 season to LaGrange and York, Coach Maples' Varsity netmen hoped to improve on last year's seventh place Suburban League finish. The inexperienced squad, composed mainly of juniors, faces a season of intense training and development.

Last season, the varsity team tallied a 4-12 overall record and a 1-6 Suburban League record. The lone league victory came against Morton in a 4-1 tilt. The three non-conference wins were scored over Elmwood Park, 4-1; Leyden East, 2-1; and another contest with Elmwood Park, 3-2. In the District Meet, the Bucs slipped from second place to fourth.

Gary Stroditz, most valuable player, led the team in scoring throughout the year. The Fresh-Soph squad suffered much the same fate as the varsity, finishing the season with a 2-13 overall slate. The only two victories came in non-conference meets with Elmwood Park, 4-1; and with Leyden East, 3-0.

East Golfers' Problems in Depth Hard to Fight

Posting a 4-8 record, the 1960 Pirate golfers exhibited a record which was a marked improvement over previous Proviso teams. The linkmen finished eighth in the Suburban League and fifth in the District Meet.

In their first three meets last year the Bucs scored a 7-3 victory over Elmwood Park, 13½-1½ victory over York, and defeated Elmwood Park 11½-3½ in a repeat. After the first three victories the golfers dropped four successive meets to Riverside Brookfield 8-7, to Highland Park 14½-½, to Oak Park 6-4, and to New Trier 1-11.

The linkers' next meet against Morton found the Bucs coming out on top 13-2. East's golfers finished the season with losses to Niles 9-6, to Joliet 12-3, to Waukegan 14-1, and to Evanston 14-1.

Coach Lundberg looks to the 1961 golfers to equal last year's record even with the absence of four lettermen. He expects strength from his one letterman returning from last year and from Jim Dyer, a transfer student. Last year's sophomores finished the season with a 0-11 record, and because of lack of depth the team will be severely handicapped.

Varsity Trackmen Take Fourth Honors

MILER BRUCE MILLER places first in Suburban League meet

Although Proviso lacked the depth necessary for a good dual meet record, Coach Don Green's varsity tracksters placed well in most large meets of the 1961 indoor season. Boasting only five returning lettermen, the small varsity squad relied heavily on its five individual performers.

Jim Carswell, 1960 Suburban League 100-yard dash champion, showed strength in the dashes and low hurdles, while Bruce Miller, second place 1960 Suburban League miler, continually took top positions in that event. In addition to these performances, Chuck Turner and Claude Grace often placed in the high and low hurdles, Walt Stinson and George Anderson scored in the dashes, and Clarence Jordan showed in the broad jump.

Improving on his last year's second place finish, Bruce Miller captured the '61 Suburban League Indoor Championship in the mile run. He also helped the Buccaneers toward their fourth place finish in the league. In the West Suburban Meet, the Pirates took sixth place in a field of thirteen.

Last season, in outdoor competition, Varsity speedsters placed fourth in the Suburban League, third in the Proviso Relays, and fifth in the District. Larry Howard scored Proviso's only points in the State Meet, taking first in the 180 yard low hurdles and third in the 120-yard high hurdles.

Coach Ken Murphy's Fresh Soph team showed promise this year. The Baby Bucs copped third place in the Suburban League Indoor Meet and fifth in the West Suburban

Seniors Bolster Pitching; Juniors Prevail on Squad

Proviso's varsity team often look to the 1961 season with a squad of veteran juniors and eight seniors. Coach Trefenbach entered the team with a strong defense. In their season opener the boys were edged 1-0 by Elmwood Park at the Eagles. The boys took down 5-1 in the second game. Next the Braves were edged by La Grange 3-1. In their first league games Proviso beat Oak Park 3-1, lost to Highland Park 6-0, and came back to beat Highland Park 1-0.

Proviso fans can expect to see catchers Custardo and Armstrong receiving the pitches of Walter, Ayres, Paul, E. Paul, Dennis and Reese. The Bucs in need of some pitching. Trefenbach, Schultz, Ekberg, Trefenbach and Hurst will be the pitchers. The boys will be held down by Brown, Gehr, and Schodnick.

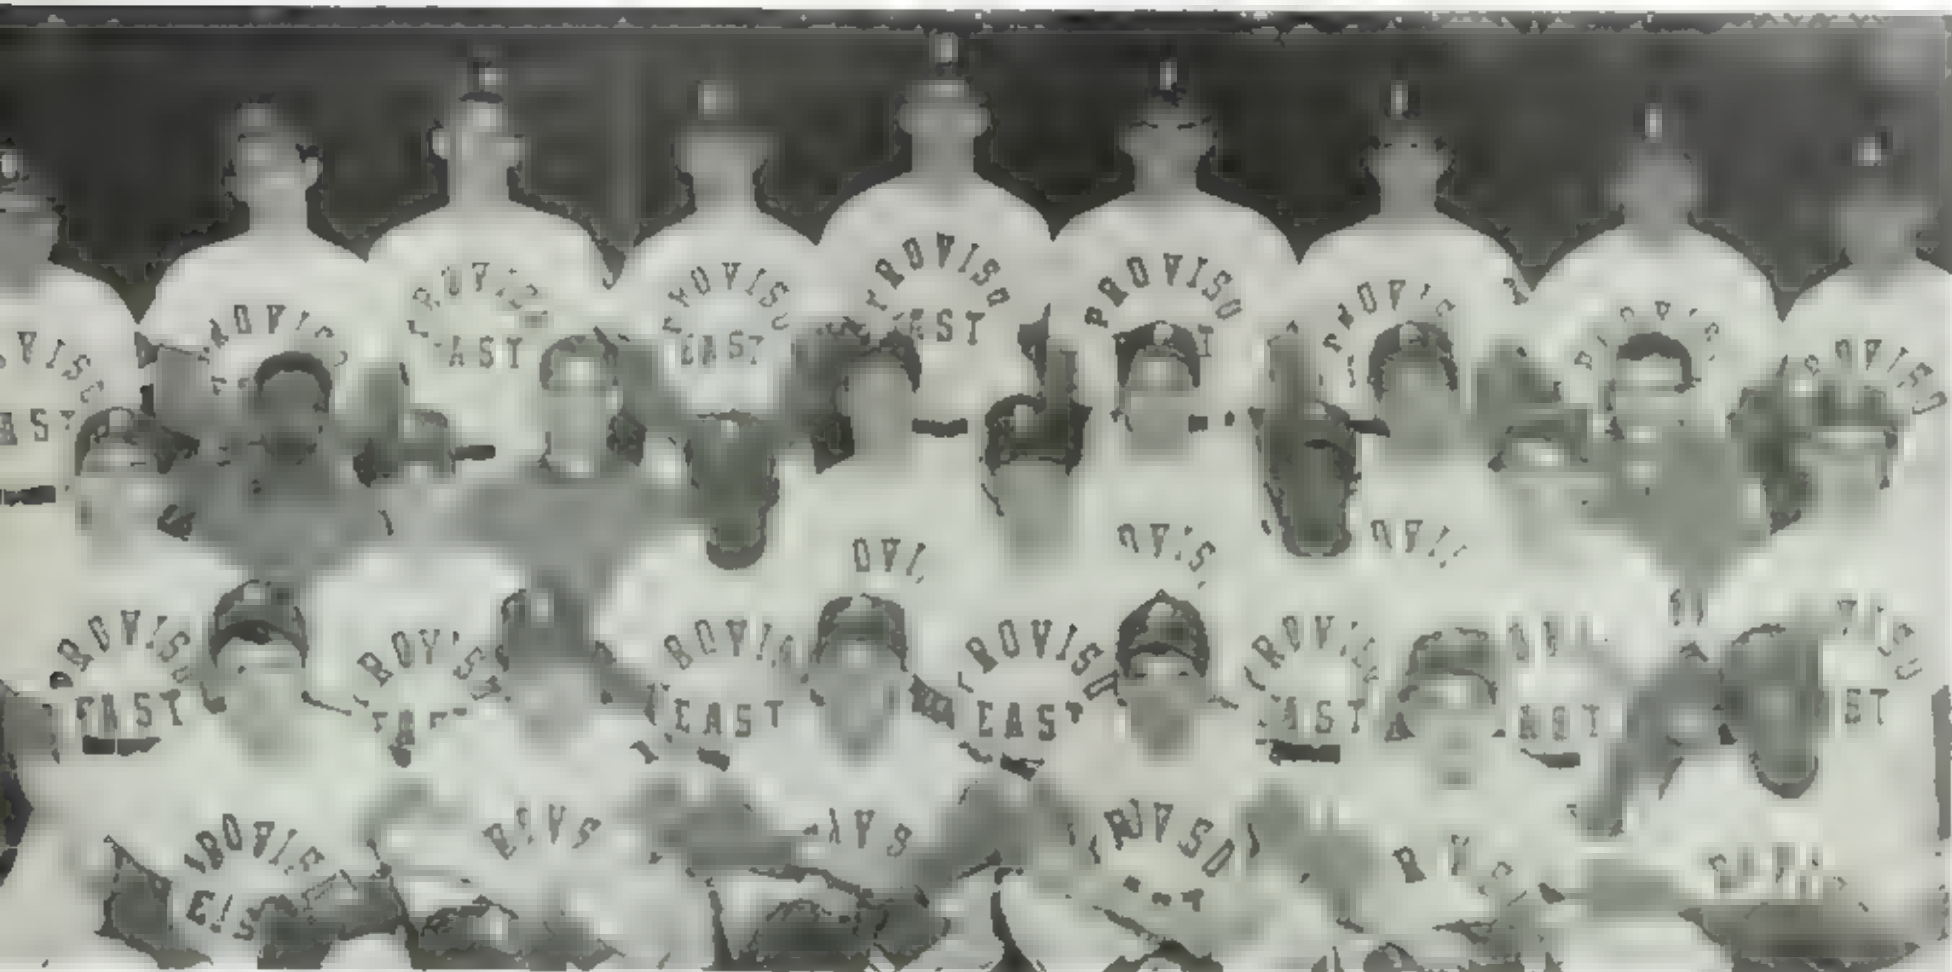

Last season the Pirates lost what was heralded by many as the most exciting game in the Southern League. The 1960 season was a tough one to start in a way, and also experienced some pitching weaknesses. Coach Trefenbach also was posted in the record and a third place in the Southern League. After the team lost its first game in the state tournament, Oak Park. Rick Schodnick and the Pirates at the plate in runs batted in with the top batting average of .44.

Coach Puplis looked for strength in pitchers De Francisca, Donrad, and Simmons, and infielders Bellini, Winters, and Voit. Last season the East sophs won seven and lost five, finishing third in the Suburban League.

The Proviso freshman nine started the season in excellent style by beating Oak Park 6-5 and by trouncing Highland Park 11-1. Coach Parker saw a strong team behind the pitching potential of six fine hurlers. The 1960 frosh diamondmen won six and lost seven of their games during a very close season to place fifth

East Cheerleaders Sponsor Cheerleading Clinic

VARSITY CHEERLEADERS really leave the floor at the finale of a Proviso East cheer.

Proviso East was host to forty schools at the Northern Illinois Cheerleading Clinic held here in the fall. The cheerleaders and their sponsors discussed cheering methods, sang, and ate together. The highlight of the clinic was a talk on the newest developments in boosting school spirit given by a representative from the National Cheerleading Association.

The Members of the varsity squad also compared notes with cheerleaders from all over the nation at the summer Cheerleading Camp in Michigan, where they placed fourth in competition. They found the information gained at these sessions valuable while cheering at football and basketball games during the year and at the regularly held practices.

Besides encouraging enthusiasm at these times, sophomore and varsity cheerleaders presented new cheers and skits in order to acquaint students with different sports and their participants at pep assemblies organized during the year.

To be chosen for the varsity cheerleading squad, girls had to meet strict requirements. Only members of the sophomore or varsity squads and semifinalists from the previous year could qualify to try out in the spring. These tryouts included passing a written test that covered aspects of cheerleading, passing a skill test, and performing various cheers. A 3.0 grade average also had to be maintained by each applicant.

Soph Cheerleaders, Racket Squad Boost East Spirit

Sophomore cheerleaders promoted school spirit and sportsmanship at sophomore football and basketball games and assisted varsity cheerleaders in the pep assemblies. Two hundred girls tried out in the spring. After a six week training session, twelve girls were chosen as semifinalists for cheerleaders. The sophomore squad was selected from these twelve after they had passed written and skill tests, performed three cheers, and had been interviewed. The number of girls on the squad was determined by the number of girls that worked together well.

Racket Squad worked with the cheerleaders to promote school spirit. This year it stressed backing all sports. New rules were established, requiring each member to attend five sports events besides the traditional basketball and football. In order to raise funds for bus trips to away games, Racket Squad members sold shakeroos, bumper tags, and sponsored some of the dances after basketball games. Organizing the Homecoming Parade was the highlight of the entire year.

Spring Postal Contests Show Sportsmanship

The Girls' Athletic Association, G.A.A., provided girls with many activities. The social list was long and varied. The year began with a "boo" at the annual Halloween party. At Christmas time G.A.A. members helped spread the season's spirit by decorating the social room for their Christmas party.

Caught in a blizzard of bliss, the social room was bounded with "Snowflakes." At their annual turn-about dance, "Spring Hoedown," girls and their dates enjoyed box-lunches, games and round dances. Displaying their best at the Mother Daughter Banquet, girls were installed as the new G.A.A.

officers. To extend a hearty welcome to incoming Freshmen, G.A.A. hosted the eighth grade get-together.

Athletics, the main function of the organization, filled after-school hours. The fall activities were tennis, archery, speedball, fencing, tumbling, and trampoline. When cold weather set in, G.A.A.'ers kept active by participating in basketball, volleyball, bowling, badminton, and swimming.

In the spring, softball joined the list as club members yearned to stretch out of doors. The Postal Archery, Bowling, and Basketball Contests added extra incentives for top sportsmanship among individual girls during competition.

GAAers Add Spice at 'Snowflakes,' 'Spring Hoedown'

Over two hundred energetic girls, having paid their dues, participated in the numerous activities. Thus they became more agile not only in physical skills, but also in social ones. At the games and other activities those girls who had taken the leadership course or manager's training supervised. Having fun while taking part in their favorite activities these girls learned while serving their organization. They, as well as the officers of the club, received leaders' awards after giving a full year of good service to Proviso's GAA.

Girls Perfect Athletic Skills to Become Leaders

To provide special instruction for girls showing talent and interest in the field of physical education, East's Girls' Physical Education Department offered its Leaders Class.

Meeting four times a week in place of a regular physical education class, these girls were taught the skills, techniques, and rules of the recreational activities in the Proviso program along with the care and use of related equipment. They also were instructed in the main points of organization, project planning, and group psychology in their sophomore year.

Membership to this group was limited to sophomore girls having a sufficient grade average and who had submitted application forms accompanied by faculty recommendations. The applicants were screened to 18 to 20 members.

Upon completing the year's training, the leaders were assigned as juniors to a regular physical education class as an assistant to the teacher. It was then their duty to demonstrate skills and techniques of the sport to the members of the class, prepare equipment, and keep locker rooms in order.

From Under Stacks of Copy Staff Sighs "That Was East!"

Lost pictures and copy made the 1961 Prom staff's struggle to meet deadlines more difficult. One staff member reported that he caught a glimpse of a hairy green tail disappearing around the filing cabinets. This must have been one of the army of thieving gremlins which invaded the premises. Miss Brooks and Lennie Novak of Root Studios deserve much thanks for helping us look for lost pictures with such endurance. Much needed help with cropping pictures and deciding on color bars came from a stalwart man, Larry Wells of Capitol Engraving. We also thank Mr. Norman Semmelroth of Record Printing and Advertising Co. for taking the subject of lavender ink and late copy with such calmness. Because he refereed our infinite cover disputes so expertly, Mr. Bill Snell deserves a medal. Last but not least, thanks to a constantly patient yearbook advisor, Miss Eleanor Johnson

AS THE LAST copy is sent to the printer, confusion brings release
